

Lowell Greeks Celebrate Centennial Of Their Old Home Independence

SCENES IN THE LOCAL GREEK COMMUNITY SHOWING FLAGS SUSPENDED AT MARKET AND JEFFERSON STREETS AND DECORATIONS ON BUILDINGS IN MARKET STREET

The buildings in the local Greek colony are ablaze with color in anticipation of the centennial of Greek independence which comes tomorrow, April 7, but which will be formally observed next Sunday, with a mass meeting and parade.

Preparations for the observance are going on apace and there is hardly a store or dwelling place in the upper Market and Jefferson street sections which is not adorned with the flags of this country and Greece, the red, white and blue blending with the pale blue and white of the Hellenic.

Even in the downtown section where business places are conducted by Greek proprietors, the flags of the two countries are very much in prominence and will be kept in view until after Sunday.

Many people who had not read of the coming celebration were somewhat puzzled at the display this morning, but inquiry of the employees of any of the places where the bunting was displayed soon brought an answering and proud answer.

In Market street, the decorations begin just above Dutton street and run through almost without interruption to Salem street. In Jefferson, Adams and other streets of the Greek community, the same display is found and conversation with any member of the community results in an enthusiastic description of Greece's fight for independence and her present struggle with the Turks. The deeds of those who were at Salamis, Thermopylae and other battles noted in Hellenic history are recounted in detail and leaves one with no doubt that tomorrow's anniversary will be observed in a patriotic and fitting manner.

But despite their enthusiasm for their native country, the local Hellenes never lose sight of the fact that the United States is their adopted country and that they are now residing here. For every Greek flag there is an American flag, and in some places the American bunting predominates.

Celebration Sunday
Final plans for the big celebration Sunday will be made at a meeting of the officers of the community, who constitute a committee on arrangements, which will be held this evening, in the school in Worthen street. The meeting will be presided over by President Chris Ziozgos of the community, and it is expected that will be received from the various organizations that have been invited to take part in the street parade.

The celebration will be held Sunday afternoon, and it is expected that every Greek-speaking resident of this city will take part in the festivities and the day will be one of rejoicing. It was announced today that there will be two speakers at the mass

END OF M'KEARN CASE Counsel for Petitioner Denounces Attempt to Blacken Character of Testator

Arguments were presented to the jury today in the Robert J. McKearn contested will case on trial before Judge Franklin T. Hammond in the superior court. The case was before the jury, upon certification from the probate court, to determine whether McKearn, the testator, was subjected to undue influence in the making of the will by Isabelle Taylor, principal beneficiary under the document. The executor named in the will is D. J. Murphy. The contestant is Mae M. Fiske, of Somerville, a cousin of the deceased.

E. A. Connihan, attorney for the contestant, said in opening that it would be necessary for him to criticize a woman somewhat stringently and harshly. He said that in carrying out a scheme, that may have originated in England, the Taylors had broken up the pleasant relations that existed between McKearn and Mrs. Lathia Lathie, and that the Taylors had been responsible for putting Mrs. Lathie out of the small store, belonging to McKearn on Main street, that Mrs. Taylor later occupied.

Mr. Connihan said that it might not

PROTEST TO GERMANY

Allies Object to Refusal of Access to Kiel Canal to British Steamer

PARIS, April 6. (By the Associated Press).—The council of ambassadors today approved the draft of a note to Germany, protesting against the refusal of access to the Kiel canal last month to the British steamer Wimbeldon, bound for Danzig, under charter by a French company and loaded with war materials for Poland.

The protest recalls that the treaty of Versailles declares the Kiel canal shall be free of access to the ships of war and commerce of all nations not at war with Germany.

RIVER POWER DEVELOPMENT

Interesting Exposition of Possibility of St. Lawrence River Development

And Its Beneficial Effect on New England Industries and Commerce

Head of New England Power Co. Addresses Local Chamber of Commerce

A decidedly interesting, forceful and clear exposition of the possibilities of the development of the St. Lawrence river and its direct, beneficial effect on New England's industries, utilities and commerce was given by Henry I. Harriman of Boston, president of the New England Power company, former president of the Boston chamber of commerce and an authority on hydro-electric power and transportation in their relation to industrial and port development, at the first monthly non-day meeting of the membership of the Lowell chamber of commerce at the New England restaurant today.

Nearly 200 members of the chamber were on hand and the success which attended the first monthly luncheon augurs well for future affairs of a similar nature. An appetizing luncheon was served promptly at 12.20, and during and after the meal there was community singing with Paul J. Angelo at the piano.

President Harold L. Chaffin presided, congratulated the members on the success of the first meeting, emphasized the desire of the chamber of officials to have the meetings start and end promptly and then introduced Mr. Harriman.

In opening, the speaker told of the tremendous commerce now being carried on over the waters of the Great Lakes. He said there is more commerce conducted there than in the Mediterranean and Black seas combined and that more tonnage passes through the port of Detroit in nine months than through New York, London or Liverpool in any 12-month period. He further stated that 40 per cent of the population of the United States lived on or near the shores of the Great Lakes and that this section was a great industrial and agricultural region.

Describing the traffic there, he said that it moved along the Great Lakes until the port of Buffalo is reached and then trouble begins. The Erie canal has helped to solve matters a bit and that the only real obstacle preventing the traffic from reaching Atlantic ports is the St. Lawrence river.

Western States Interested
Mr. Harriman pointed out that 15 western states had united to secure the development of the St. Lawrence for navigation purposes but he believed that the project was of even greater import to New England and New York. It will affect New England in three ways, he said. First, it will prove a source of abundant hydro-electric power; secondly, it will allow inland commerce to pass from Atlantic ports through the St. Lawrence river directly to the Great Lakes; and thirdly, it will have a direct influence on our foreign commerce.

Discussing the possibilities of the hydro-electric power resources of the St. Lawrence, were it properly developed, the speaker said that congress has complete power over any river that is or can be made navigable and that is a corollary right. It can create power, develop the river. It has the right to create hydro-electric energy as a by-product of the improvement of the St. Lawrence.

Mr. Harriman then went on to describe the flow and drop of the St. Lawrence as compared with the Merrimack and said that the St. Lawrence has a fourth of the flow of the Merrimack, but it has a fourth of the drop of the Merrimack, and the result will be that the St. Lawrence will produce four times as much power as the Merrimack.

There has been formed, he said, an organization known as the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Waterway association, the purpose of which is to develop this project and it has already succeeded in having a joint commission made up of representatives of the United States and Canadian governments appointed to investigate the matter. This investigation has been practically completed and a report on the possibilities of the project and its estimated cost will be made public within the next 60 days. This report, he said, will recommend a 50-foot dam with locks in the middle of the river and a power house on either end. This will enable the development of four million horsepower every day in the year and every hour in the day.

That would mean five times as much as all the power consumed in New England. The cost will probably be between 250 and 300 million dollars. The natural market for the power produced will be New England, Canada and New York, and the results will include the electrification of New England railroads and the substitution of electrical energy for coal in her industries and utilities.

PLAN MEMORIAL TO RAY CHAPMAN

BRUNSWICK, Me., April 6.—A proposal to institute a memorial to Raymond Chapman, shortstop of the Cleveland club of the American league last year, who died of injuries sustained on the field of play, has been advanced by students of Bowdoin college. The memorial would take the form of a silver trophy which would be given the American league to award annually to the shortstop of that circuit who was of greatest value to his team. The cup would be inscribed "The Ray Chapman cup donated by students of Bowdoin college." One of the reasons prompting the proposed memorial according to Geoffrey Mason, who has been active in promoting the idea, is the almost complete loss of sentiment in the highly organized game of today.

Paris Editor Regards Note as Grave Stand on Part of United States

Identical communications were sent to the British and Italian governments. It is understood with notice that the text will be issued at the state department in Washington immediately after all the interested governments have received it.

CONTRACT FOR CEMENT

Chamber of Commerce Suggests That City Be Duly Protected

The board of directors of the chamber of commerce have sent a letter to Purchasing Agent Foye in reference to the call for bids on 4000 barrels of Portland cement and suggested that as a decline in the price of this commodity is predicted, the city should be protected in the premises.

In the letter of Mr. Foye, Secretary Wells says:

It has come to the attention of some of the members of the board of directors that a marked decline in this commodity has been predicted and they deem it a wise business policy to guard against this reduction in price.

Do you, in contracting with any person for delivery of cement, include in the contract an agreement for a guaranty against price decline until the work contemplated is completed?

We assume that you have such provision included in the contract for cement. If not, however, this board suggests that this should be done.

STRAPHANGING IN AIRPLANES LATEST

LONDON, April 6.—London has long known the straphanger in subway, street car and omnibus, but only recently the first instance of aerial straphanging was recorded. They made the journey standing in the passageway, holding onto the luggage racks.

GEN. EDWARDS TO BE PROMOTED

Sec. Weeks Announces Former Y. D. Commander To Be Made Major General

Will Be Included in List to Be Sent to President Within Few Days

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Brig. Gen. Clarence H. Edwards, who commanded the 26th Division in France is promoted to the rank of major general, Secretary Weeks said today.

The letter of General Edwards from command of his division while it was at the front was the subject of an inquiry in the senate in 1918 by Mr. Weeks, who then was senator from Massachusetts.

General Edwards' name will be included in the list of promotions of general officers which is to be sent to President Harding within a few days for transmission to the senate.

It was not in the list prepared some months ago under the Wilson administration and which failed of confirmation by the last senate.

Secretary Weeks said the new chief of staff to succeed Major General Peyton C. March would not be announced until after the list of general officers had been sent in. "The secretary added that he personally had examined the records of the men to be promoted and intimated that he would assume full responsibility for the promotions and for the failure to give promotions to other officers."

Lockout Declared at Turin, Italy

LONDON, April 6.—A lockout has been declared by the factory owners of Turin, an Italian industrial center, and troops have occupied the factories there, says a despatch to the Central News from Rome today.

The industrial troubles in Turin have recently centered in the F.I.A.T. works. Occupation of factories by workers occurred last year very generally throughout the Italian metal industry, the government finally being forced to devise a settlement plan, which provided for participation by the workers in the running of the plants.

Rates, Wages and Management Are Three Horns of the Dilemma

Railroads Headed for Receivership Unless Some Way Out is Found

(Special to The Sun)

BY H. B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, April 6.—"Unless some relief is found for the railroad roads, they are headed straight for receivership, possibly by July 1." This opinion, voiced by a member of the Harding cabinet who probably understands the railroad situation in all its aspects better than any other man in the official family, indicates the serious concern the nation's transportation problem is giving the new administration. What can be done to avert that result?

"Cut wages," say the railroad executives. But an offhand slashing of wages is out of the hands of either the railway operators or government officials.

Wage Machinery. Definite machinery was set up by the Federal Commerce Commission for the settlement of railroad wage disputes. To date its functioning has not promised the roads any great relief through the reduction of wages.

At the White House the statement is made that nothing the administration or the cabinet can do can clarify the situation. The only recourse is to impress the interstate commerce commission and the railroad labor board with the importance of finding some way out. And that President Harding has done by conference with Chairman Clark of the commission and Chairman Barton of the board.

More efficient management, labor leaders contend, will bring relief. In disputing the statement of the railroad executives that lower wages will save the situation, they point out that these same executives have not since contended increased rates would turn the trick.

Three Horns. Rates, wages, management—these are the three horns of the railroad dilemma.

The administration, despite reluctance to see the roads thrown into receivership, will keep hands off the wage issue. That will be left with the railroad labor board. At the White House, it is indicated that the whole issue of wage agreements may turn on a question raised by B. M. Jewell of the railway employees. In a telegram to the president, urging the chief executive to call a conference between the railway executives and the employees, Jewell raised the question whether or not the national agreements involving wages extended beyond the period of national control. This, officials say, is the situation declared.

Growing Worse. Since January 1, the railroad situation has been growing worse. With the likelihood that the present year will see operating and other expenses more than wiping out all revenue. Despite Senator Cummins' declaration that no more railroad legislation is needed, it seems certain that the situation will be the subject for a congressional investigation. One member of the president's official family has declared:

"The whole railway question must

"I could not do the slightest work without getting tired and would have to sit down and rest. I was so miserable and melancholy there were times when I really didn't wish to live. To tell the truth I had lost faith in medicine but I felt like I would give anything on earth to be well again so I got a bottle of Tanlac and I want to say my happiness started from that day for it began to help me immediately. I am on my third bottle now and all my troubles have left me. My appetite is just fine. I sleep all night long as sound and peacefully as a child and I feel so different. BUY NEW ATLAS
And Find How War Has Changed the World

We all know that the war has changed the map of the world, but few of us know just how it has changed, and where the changes have come. Do we know that Great Britain has gained over 2 million miles of territory, and that France has pushed her borders beyond the Rhine valley? Can we trace the spectacular drives of the armies, and the great allied advance that drove the Germans back?

All these features are made clear in the People's Atlas, a collection of striking and accurate maps, valuable information in regard to each country, and as a special attraction, the 1920 census of all the large cities of the United States.

No one can afford to be without this valuable atlas, and still less to take advantage of the special offer of The Sun. The regular price of the atlas is $1.10, but by simply clipping the coupon from The Sun and presenting it with 50 cents at the office, a copy of the atlas will be given out as long as the supply lasts. Do not fail to get your People's Atlas early, and to present your coupon at The Sun office as soon as possible.

NAVY NEWS

Enlistments are now open for all grades in the United States navy, and the recruiting agents around the American legion headquarters on Dutton street are making special efforts to secure a large number of men within the next few weeks. The age limit for all grades now open is 18.35. Men discharged at their own request are now eligible for re-enlistment. Men who are re-enlisted as above outlined and who have served three months or more in the navy will be transferred to the nearest receiving ship for general duty. Now is the chance to be sent right from Lowell to government service.

FIVE-CENT FARE ZONE

Distances Within Scope of Nickel Fare "If" Request
Is Granted

Should the public trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. see fit to grant the request of the local home rule committee to have a five-cent fare established in the central zone of the Lowell district, the following distances will come within the scope of the nickel fare on the various lines in this city. The figures are from the records of the home rule committee:

Line, end of five-cent zone and distance:
Moody street, end of line, 1.80 miles.
Andover street, Clark road, 1.33 miles.
Broadway, end of line, 1.72 miles.
High street, end of line, 1.15 miles.
Hovey square, end of line, 1.73 miles.
Pawtucketville, end of line, 2.07 miles.
Christian Hill, end of line, 1.29 miles.
Varnum avenue, Magnolia street, 2.02 miles.
Oaklands, end of line, 1.56 miles.
Highlands, end of line, 2.55 miles.
Dracut Centre, end of line, 1.53 miles.
Westford street, end of line, 2.30 miles.
Lawrence street, Davis square, 1.95 miles.
North Chelmsford, Pawtucket street, 1.90 miles.
Chelmsford street, City hospital, 2.14 miles.
Lakeview avenue, Pleasant street, 1.60 miles.
Reading (Rogers street), double rail, 1.76 miles.
Hillieria, Edison cemetery, 1.91 miles.
Lawrence, Haverhill street, 1.67 miles.

In each instance the distance is figured from Merrimack square. Thus it will be seen that people living on the Highlands line will be able to get a longer ride for a nickel than those living on any other line.

DO YOU CATCH
COLD EASILY?

HOW TO AVOID IT

Colds are due to germs. No one can prevent the germs from getting into your nose and throat. But you can help keep plenty of strong, vigorous, "anti-bodies" in your blood to fight and kill off the nasty "cold germs" before they do you any harm.

To develop these germ destroying

"anti-bodies" properly, you must have plenty of pure, rich, red blood and a strong, vigorous constitution—in fact, this is the best preventative against almost any disease.

If you are weak, nervous or run down, or subject to colds, take no chances. One day you may develop serious throat, bronchial or lung trouble or perhaps pneumonia, and you may go off like a shot. Therefore commence to enrich your blood and fortify yourself against "disease germs" today. To build more and better blood and make stronger nerves, there is nothing superior to NUTRATED IRON as it contains organic iron like the iron in your blood combined with a product representing the principal chemical constituent of active living nerve force for feeding the nerves. Nuxated Iron may therefore be said to be both a blood and a nerve food. It often increases the bodily and mental vigor, strength and endurance in two weeks' time.

Over 4,000,000 people are using it annually. It has been highly endorsed by former United States Senators, U. S. Army Generals, many physicians and prominent men. Even the Pope at Rome mentioned it favorably in a communication to the proprietor of the Pharmacie Normale of Paris.

Satisfaction guaranteed or the manufacturers will refund your money.
Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "NUTRATED" on every package and the letters N.I. on every tablet. Sold by all druggists.—Adv.

TIMELY STITCH
Going over freshly ironed clothes in search of rips, tears and missing buttons is irksome and wastes time. If a needle and thread and a button supply is kept on the ironing board, you can quickly mend rips and sew on buttons as you and them in ironing.
It saves a long search afterward.

UNIONS WILL START
LABOR SCHOOLS

(Special to The Sun)
NEW YORK, April 6.—A double movement backed by 60 labor unions and by a liberalist labor party is under way to establish a nationwide chain of trade union colleges and extension schools for workers.
The two groups have laid plans for establishing a new social order by education.
The liberalists met in secret session at the Brookwood school in Katonah,
N. Y., April 1.
The educational congress sponsored by organized labor got under way in

New York city April 2.
Attending the Katonah meeting were John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor; James
Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania
State Federation of Labor; Jay G.
Brown of Seattle, president of the International Timber Workers; A. J.
Muste, executive secretary of the Amalgamated Textile Workers; Edward Neckles, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor, and John Brophy of the United Mine Workers.
Discussions at the Katonah meeting
hinged about these points:
First, that a new social order is needed and is already on the way.

Second, that education will hasten its coming and be a safeguard against violence.
Third, that the workers will usher
in this new order.
Fourth, that there is immediate need for a workers' college in country surroundings.
The conference in New York, as explained by Fannie M. Conn, president of the educational committee of the International Ladies' Garment Workers union will strive:
First, to increase the number of trade union schools throughout the country.
Second, to improve existing schools
Third, to encourage the sons and daughters of workers to attend union schools.

"One reason for founding trade labor schools," Miss Conn said, "is to equip men and women to carry out the ideals of labor and become leaders in the movement."
"We need leaders, and they must be highly specialized. The schools will also offer the broadest of education to the children of workmen without the embarrassment of extravagant tuition costs."

Sun spots are now thought to be a sign of commencing debility of the sun.
ILLUSTRATED LECTURE ON INDIAN LIFE
Rev. Appleton Grinnell, pastor of St.
Anne's church, gave an interesting illustrated lecture on Indian life before the members of the girls' friendship society Monday evening in the parish house in First street. About 50 young women were present. Rev. Mr.
Grinnell has an excellent collection of pictures of the Indians of New Mexico and the homes and country in which they live. He spoke interestingly of his personal experiences with the Indians of various tribes and said that whereas there were about a million
Indians in this country at the time of Columbus, today there are only about 200,000.

HELD ANNUAL MEETING

Fish and Game Club Elects
Officers—Address By Congressman Rogers

At the annual meeting of the Lowell Fish and Game Association held last evening Simon B. Harris was re-elected president and Willis S. Holt was re-elected secretary. Despite the fact that Mr. Harris had stated at a previous meeting and had also announced in the Sun that he would not be a candidate for re-election, the association, to a man, insisted upon his acceptance of another term. "When I said I would not be a candidate for re-election," said Mr. Harris, "I meant it, but what is a man to do? The odds are against me. I will accept." The president was cheered to the echo. The election arrangement was by the Australian method, but as Mr. Harris' election was by acclamation the ballot was not used in his case.

A feature of the meeting was an address by Congressman John Jacob Rogers, including interesting reference to the migratory fish question. He confessed that he was not thoroughly in-the building of the fishway, the letter to be submitted to President Harris for his approval.

President Harris was visibly affected by the insistence of the association that he serve another term. "When I said I would not be a candidate for re-election," said Mr. Harris, "I meant it, but what is a man to do? The odds are against me. I will accept." The president was cheered to the echo. The election arrangement was by the Australian method, but as Mr. Harris' election was by acclamation the ballot was not used in his case.

past and I know that continued assistance will be mine without the asking. We have an organization of which we may well feel proud. We have carried out the principles on which the organization was founded a few short years ago and we will continue along that same line, with justice for all and malice toward none. I thank you gentlemen for the confidence you have made manifest by unanimous action."

Another very pleasing feature of the meeting was contained in the applications for memberships brought in by members who are on the job every minute. Last year twenty-five new members were taken in at the annual meeting and this year the number was 45. This puts the total membership well over the $50 mark.

Officers Elected
The officers elected, other than the president and secretary, were as follows: First vice president, Dr. C. B. Livingston; second vice president, Jos. Wall; treasurer, R. F. Haynes; executive committee, George W. Dearborn, Luther W. Faulkner, John Kenesh, William J. Kilburn and Frank A. Griffin.

Secretary's Report
The secretary's report was quite lengthy, giving in detail the various activities of the year, accounts of which have been published from time to time in the Sun. That part of the report dealing with inspection and research work, not heretofore appearing in detail in the press, was as follows:

On May 6, the following ponds were inspected by members of the U. S. department of fisheries on orders of U. S. Commissioner Dr. M. M. Smith of Washington, D. C.: Long pond, Dracut; Long-Sought, Spectacle pond in Littleton, Westford; Spectacle pond in Littleton, Westford; Spectacle pond in Littleton, Westford. The party consisted of Superintendent Waldo F. Hubbard of the U. S. Fish Hatcheries station at Nashua, N. H., Capt. E. K. Burnham, Orrin Keil of U. S. Fisheries. Your secretary and treasurer, R. F. Haynes, were requested to act as guides and show where the ponds were located.

The reason of this inspection was to determine, if possible, if the ponds were suitable for rainbow trout. As many thousands of the same have been introduced in them during the past few years and without any of the same being caught or seen.

Their report condensed is as follows: "We believe that this trout will do well in both Forge and Spectacle ponds as both ponds have swift running water

A Pretty Carriage for a Pretty Baby—Naturally!

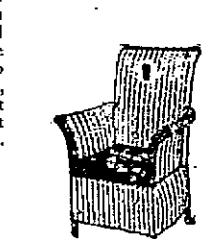

The dearest, sweetest, finest, brightest baby in all the world, isn't he? How proudly Sister takes him out for all the world to see!

You're proud of his smart little stroller, too, isn't it? A Lloyd—the wicker weaving as smooth and even and perfect as a fine fabric; the finish as careful as every little garment made for his layette.

Although they're so much better, Lloyd Carriages and Wicker Furniture are not the most expensive, because Marshall B. Lloyd invented a method and loom which produce Lloyd Carriages and Wicker Furniture thirty times faster and finer than the old hand woven products. Their inventions cut labor costs, enable Mr. Lloyd to weave the finest wickers, use the best materials, employ the most skilled workmen, add the latest refinements and still sell his wicker products at remarkable prices. A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weakness? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis, there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days, everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a few weeks and that this is one of the very few will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of wearing glasses and the troubles of many prescriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules here. Is the prescription? Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Non-Opto tablets. Drop one Non-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow it to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes twice a day. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

NOTE: Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Non-Opto is a remarkable remedy for eye troubles. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family. It is sold in Lowell and vicinity by all good druggists.—Adv.

running in, and this particular trout must have swift running water to spawn in; the other ponds in question have no swift running brooks running in, therefore this trout could not reproduce and would leave any such pond if the outlet was open so that it might do so."

They also said that they thought that the rainbows might be found in both Forge and Spectacle ponds if the were used during the fly fishing season.

On June 15, 16 and 17, research was by Chief Deputy Bourne and Deputy Edward Backus of the state department of fisheries and game, assisted by your secretary, was made on Forge pond for the purpose of trying to locate the rainbow trout. Our efforts to locate the fish were disappointing.

Hundreds of white and yellow perch as well as trout and pickers were found and returned to the pond.

It was found that the net we were using was not deep enough as it was only 10 feet deep and 300 feet in length, the length was perhaps right but the depth should be at least 25 feet.

We were well satisfied that the white perch introduced there by this association are doing fine for we located white perch all the way from fingerlings to fish 19 inches in length.

Fish and Game
The distribution of fish, rabbits and birds during the year was reported as follows:

Fifteen thousand brook trout fingerlings and 100 adults; 6000 rainbow trout fingerlings; 1500 white perch adults; 6000 yellow perch fry; 10000 blue perch fry; 6000 black bass fry; 4000 black bass fingerlings.

Game and Game Birds
During the past year we have received and distributed 51 snow-shoe rabbits; eight Mallard ducks; and 52 pheasants. Forty-five of the rabbits and 20 of the pheasants were purchased from funds of the association.

The grand total of all fish and game received and distributed by this association since organization May 7, 1912, up to this date is as follows:

Three hundred thirty-three thousand brook trout fry; 80,000 fingerlings; 2025 adults; 137,150 rainbow trout fry; 45,000 fingerlings; 87,880 black bass fry; 10,010 fingerlings; 220 adults; 21,850 hornpout adults; 225 crappie fingerlings; 1250 white perch fry; 13,355 adults; 22,000 yellow perch fry; 240,000 blue perch fry; 4,000,000 smelt fry; 500,000 smelt eggs.

The grand total of all fish received and distributed is 21,850,755. Grand total of game and game birds received and distributed is as follows: 51 snow-shoe rabbits; 878 Mallard ducks; 68 quail; 25 pheasants; 132 pheasant eggs; 1000 wild turkey farmers for propagation, 155.

In closing his report Secretary Holt thanked the officers and members for their hearty co-operation during the year.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

"MR. SEAL'S STORY"

"I'll tell you about it," said Mr. Seal, "No, Mr. Seal had decided to settle down and have a quiet home and marry a hundred wives and have a thousand children, and he didn't like it a bit when Mrs. Seal (the first wife he had chosen) said would he please to tell her all about this circus he used to be in."

By and by Mr. Seal said, "All right, my love, I'll tell you all about it." And he began:

"First of all, a circus is owned by a creature called a walrus, on account of having a bristly mustache, but not always. Sometimes a man looks more like our other cousin, the seal-lion, because long hair grows all over the top of his head. Then it's called a lady."

"Is a lady pretty?" asked Mrs. Seal. "It depends," said Mr. Seal thoughtfully. "I've seen 'em all dressed in shiny pink things a sailing around through the air over my head, jumping from one rope to another, and they were the loveliest." Mr. Seal stopped suddenly. "What was I saying?"

"You were talking about pretty pink things," nodded Mrs. Seal. "I forgot what you called them."

Mr. Seal blinked. He hadn't meant to be so forgetful of himself and say that anything about a circus was nice. "They were awful creatures," he remarked, growling fiercely. "Scare you to death," he declared.

Mrs. Seal shivered. "You must have been very brave!" she admired.

"Oh, just a trifle!" Mr. Seal swelled out his chest.

"What do men look like?" asked Mrs. Seal.

"A head aplene, four flippers, and they stand on the hind ones, and they can bend in the middle."

"How awful!"

39 LEGISLATORS RESENT REMARKS

Protest G. A. R. Chief's Criticism of Villard Committee of 100.

Jewish Elks Protest Ham's Remarks at Veterans' Dinner in Boston

BOSTON, April 6.—The visit of the national commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, William A. Ketchum of Indianapolis, to Boston stirred up two hornets' nests yesterday.

His brief address to the members of the house of representatives at the state house in the afternoon, in which he indirectly touched on the Irish question, resulted in protests later by some of the members of that body, while in the evening a number of Jewish members of the Elks held an indignity conference following an address by Comrade Benjamin A. Ham, of South Boston, at a dinner at the Elks' home, at which they said Mr. Ham made uncomplimentary references to the Jewish race.

An address before the Massachusetts house of representatives yesterday afternoon by Commander-in-Chief Ketchum, in which he criticized the "Villard committee of 100," caused 39 members of the house and senate to sign a statement condemning Mr. Ketchum's utterances.

Commander Ketchum had accepted an invitation to address the house, and in the course of his remarks urged his hearers to see that "what the men won on the battlefield of France is not lost in this country."

He demanded to know by what right Oswald G. Villard and others criticize "our former allies in the Great War."

Mr. Ketchum declared that neither the committee of 100, which investigated the situation in Ireland, nor his recently-published conclusions truly represented the sentiment of the American people, because its personnel was not made up of members of such patriotic organizations as the Grand Army of the Republic or the American Legion, the members of which had jeopardized their lives to preserve the government.

"It was an impertinence," he asserted, "for any self-appointed body like the committee of 100 to pass on foreign political situations."

Remembering that the father of Oswald Garrison Villard, in whom the committee owed its existence, was a Bavarian by birth, the commander said:

"Mr. Villard, even though he be a grandson of William Lloyd Garrison, the great emancipator, has no right to assume to represent me or the people of this nation."

"We do not want German-Americans, Irish-Americans, or Russian-Americans, but just plain, every-day Americans," said Mr. Ketchum. He added that he was conscious that he was speaking in a city in which there are more Irishmen than in Dublin.

After the speech of Commander-in-Chief Ketchum, representatives Paul H. Hines of South Boston and Patrick J. Melody of the South End circulated a petition, addressed to Speaker Young, requesting the remarks of the G.A.R. commander, and 39 members of the house and senate signed it.

The petition was as follows:

"The undersigned members of the legislature, vigorously resent the remarks made by W. A. Ketchum, national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, in reference to the "Villard Committee of One Hundred," and to Americans of Irish extraction, and all other reference to the sympathizers of Ireland.

Commander Ketchum, in repeating his remarks, stated that he was speaking for the entire membership of the Grand Army of the Republic.

"As members of the legislature, we doubt his authority to express such sentiments as coming from the entire personnel of the Grand Army of the Republic. We are convinced that there are too many members of Irish birth and Irish descent, members of the G.A.R., to allow any man to express the sentiments given by Commander Ketchum.

"His remarks in regard to the Villard committee, composed of 100 per cent. Americans, were entirely uncalled for and unpatriotic. They are along the same lines and are undoubtedly based upon a reading of the protest made by Ambassador Geddes on the report issued by this committee and not on a report of the committee itself."

Jewish Members Indignant
BOSTON, April 6.—Informal protests were aroused at the G.A.R. dinner in the Elks home by remarks of speakers. The indignant group, who had nothing to do with the G.A.R. dinner, happened to have been dining at a table in the cafe, where they overheard the speeches. After talking the matter over in no pleasant mood, in the corridor of the building, they decided that under the circumstances their had better make no formal protest, but seem at least to "forget it."

The dinner last evening was tendered by the commander-in-chief of the National Staff Association of the Massachusetts Department. About 40 veterans of the Civil War attended. Geo.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

A prominent physician says that by far the largest number of women's ailments are not surgical ones, that is, they are not caused by serious displacements, or growths. Symptoms similar to "Cancer" are often brought about by much simpler conditions. We therefore urge every woman who suffers from backache, headaches, bearing down pains, dizziness, irregularities, nervous despondency or weakness, to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It acts as a natural restorative and often prevents more serious troubles.—Adv.

sacredness of the Sabbath," and he hoped that "wholehearted Americanism, such as is being taught in the west, will be taught in Boston."

Vice Commander-in-Chief Hosley declared that it had his way. "The agitators who inculcate Red doctrines in the minds of the ignorant immigrants in the country would be stood up against a blank wall and consigned to a firing squad."

He charged that the Japanese, the Germans and other nations are spending money on propaganda in this country. He said he thanked God that "the men at the head of the war and the navy departments in Washington are men who have seen military service and will, if permitted, place the United States in a condition of military preparedness never hitherto known."

Col. J. Jayson Bradley, past commander of the Massachusetts department, asserted that there are periods of times, instancing reports of strikes and riots in the newspapers as evidence. He said that when the police have to "draw their guns" to match those of rioters in Boston streets there is a great need for teaching of law and order. "Any man who raises his voice against the state or nation should be struck down, even be his own brother," said he.

Commenting on the present widespread strikes Col. Bradley said that the establishment with which he is connected kept employees at work for months "doing nothing," paying them wages from profits made when times were good.

He admitted the right of every man as a free American to refuse to work when he chooses, but he added: "If a man chooses to work for no and another workman attempts to strike him down, he will have to do it over my dead body. The right of freedom to work in whatever way is satisfactory to ourselves must be vindicated."

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

On legal affidavit John Hart Brittain, business man, certified to this: "My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. An expert said that he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth."

"Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs."

INDIANS' SECRET OF HAIR GROWTH
Mr. Brittain certified further: "At a time when I had become discouraged at trying to grow my hair again, I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian 'medicine man' who had an elixir that he asserted would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as profuse as in my youthful days."

True Hair Grower at Last
"That I was astonished and happy in expressing my state of mind clearly when bald, middle-aged, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the then mysterious pomade. I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this, now called KOTALKO, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist. That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved."

TED JAMESON TO BOX VICTORY FOR LOWELL
BILL M'KINNON HERE

After considerable negotiating, the matchmaker of the Crescent A. A. has finally completed his card for tomorrow night.

Ted Jameson, the well known light heavyweight of Milwaukee, who is now making his home in Boston and Bill McKinnon of Roxbury, who recently staged a comeback, will meet in the main event of ten rounds and Frank Molins and Johnny Boyle, local rivals will perform in the semi-final of eight rounds.

McKinnon a few years ago was one of the leading fighters of his weight in the east and local fans will well remember his many sensational battles with Jimmy Gardner. These great bouts are still the subject of many conversations among ring followers. In his "comeback" bout at Boston a few weeks ago McKinnon showed much of his old-time form.

Molins and Boyle are well known to local followers of the game. Molins has been quite active of late, but Boyle's activities have been confined to training. He has been working out for many weeks with a view of attaining a "comeback" and he reports that he is in fine condition. There will be one other bout.

Reporters from Boston indicate that Frank Molins, the local boxer, made a big hit there Monday night when he won the decision over Johnny Murray after eight rounds. Murray had a big weight advantage over Molins, and the fact that the local lad was able to overcome the handicap and win practically all the way, brought him vigorous applause. Matchmaker Brophy of the club was so well pleased with the Lowell boy's showing that he promised to use him frequently during the coming months.

Jimmy Demas of Lowell and Benny Nelson, also of this city, will appear in an eight-round bout in Nashua on Thursday evening.

DEVLIN SETS HIGH MARK
IN BOWLING TOURNEY

Jack Devlin, with a three-string total of 337, has jumped into the lead in the three-string competition in the second week of the big bowling tournament on the Crescent alleys.

Devlin made his total while rolling on a team composed of Flanders, Schonborn and himself. His strings were 123, 122, 121, which with a handicap of six pins gives him the total indicated.

The mark set is high for picked strings for the week, and it was made by a prize for $2 for high daily rolling.

Schonborn set a fast pace in individual competition, with a total of 365, or 105-102-122 by strings. He is favored to the extent of eight pins by the handicapper. For one string rolling, Watson was high with 145.

Flanders and Devlin lead in two-men rolling with a total of 701. This week's leaders are:

Individual: Schonborn, 365; McNulty, 324; Beane, 292.

Two-men: Flanders and Devlin, 701; Flynn and Quinn, 685; Dr. Hewson and Dr. Horne, 680; Sullivan and King, 654.

Three-men: Schonborn, Flanders and Devlin, 1021; Ecklund, Watson and Dooly, 984; Curtin, Hewson and Horne, 952; Houston, Brown and King, 953.

HARVARD'S TRACK FACILITIES

CAMBRIDGE, April 6.—Harvard's track training facilities are to be doubled by duplication of the quarter-mile under path of the stadium on open ground just beyond. The new track will save the surface of the stadium paths, add to be the fastest in the country, for important events, and also make it possible to hold full practice at a time when the stadium is unavailable because of wooden stands being erected for the football crowds. The dimensions and layout of the secondary track will be the same as those of the stadium oval with a 220 yard straightaway.

Thrills and Fisticuffs Featured Overtime Game

With Fall River Last Night

One of the most exciting games of the present season with overtime necessary to determine the winner, was played at the Crescent rink before an enthusiastic crowd last night with Lowell finally landing the victory by the score of 7 to 6.

At Lowell scored the winning goal in 15 seconds of actual overtime though the elapsed time from the third period made it 1:55. It was a beautiful angle shot that slipped by Mossie Conley like a bullet.

While the game itself was of sufficient interest to hold the attention of the crowd a little "side show" added to the general excitement. Frank Hardy went on a rampage in the third period and when he invaded into the Lowell goal and reached the stick, the Lowell goal tend resented the interference and made a pass at Hardy. Referee Graham intervened and called a foul on Hardy. This caused a great howl. Hardy objected strenuously and to make his protest more emphatic, he began to toss the official around. Graham coolly and deliberately put the ball he was holding into his pocket and squared off. The pair clashed, but the other players intervened, and Officer Liston came onto the floor, and escorted Hardy to the dressing room.

After a brief lull, Hardy returned to the accompaniment of "rizzberries" by the fans, with cheers for Graham. Play was resumed and from then until the finish it was as fast and bitterly contested a battle as has ever been seen here.

Play was close in the opening session. Pierce and Harkins each tallied and Quigley followed with one for Lowell. Pierce then landed another and shortly before the end of the session Davies took one for Lowell. Score: Fall River three, Lowell two. In the second Davies came through with one that tied the score. Fall River then got a brace with Harkins and Hardy the scorers. Score: Fall River five, Lowell three.

With the opening of the third session Lowell launched a whirlwind offensive. Alexander hammered in a brace, tying the score, and a little later Davies put Lowell out in front, with a fine drive.

At this point the rumpus came and after the melee Harkins poked one in again creating a tie. There was no further scoring in the session and overtime play was in order.

After a brief intermission the players got at it again, with all fighting hard for the one big goal. Finally Davies poked the ball out of a scrimmage, and by a bullet drive sent the "red" into the curtains for victory. The lineup and score:

POLO NOTES

Providence will play here Friday night.

As was expected Blount and Conley gave a fine exhibition of how to tend goal.

Referee Graham jumped from a villain to a hero in last night's game. Fans "rode" him in the early part of the game, but in the third period, when he penalized Hardy and later retaliated when Hardy made a pass at him, the crowd accorded him three cheers.

Harkins and Pierce turned in a fine passing game.

With the Whalers sure of the pennant Fox Quigley and his teammates have issued a challenge to the champs for a series of games. The locals as now constituted feel capable of putting it onto the leaders in a series of games.

TRAINING CAMP NOTES

BOSTON, April 6.—After a 4 to 0 victory over the University of Alabama at Tusculum, Ala., yesterday, the Boston Nationals departed for Columbia, Tenn., last night. An exhibition game between the first and second teams will be played there.

PLAN TO AID FARMERS

Most Important Meeting of Farmers in History at Chicago Today

CHICAGO, April 6.—The ratification conference on the co-operative grain marketing plan submitted by the farmers' marketing committee of 17 assemblers here today for the most important meeting of farmers that the history of our country or any other country has ever recorded. In the words of C. H. Gustafson, chairman of the committee.

Details of the plan prepared during nearly a year of conferences to market the majority of the farm products of the country under the most favorable price conditions were submitted to representatives of the various farm organizations behind the proposal.

The plan provides purely and simply for the farmer to enter upon a program of conducting his own business of marketing," said Mr. Gustafson.

The plan proposed by the committee of 17 as a basis of action called for farmers to contract for the sale of all their grain as members of the national co-operative organization.

Plans were outlined for national agencies for finance and for export. The department of agriculture should lend the same aid to farmers in marketing their crops as it does in their production," Secretary Wallace declared in an address at the conference.

The farmers' right to organize into associations, co-operative or otherwise, for the purpose of marketing their crops, he said, could not be questioned so long as they observed the law.

While not discussing the committee's marketing plan in detail, the secretary said it appeared to have profited by practical experience of the past and to have avoided the weakness which had broken down many previous organizations.

He called attention to the current low prices for farm products while "practically everything the farmers buy is from 50 to 100 per cent. above pre-war normals."

He declared, however, that the more critical the situation, "the greater the need for keeping a level head. It is not a time to try quick nostrums."

With the exception of France, the railways of continental Europe are for the most part state-owned.

NEW YORK POLICE IN

DRIVE ON SALOONS

NEW YORK, April 6.—Saloonkeepers who derived comfort last night from the fact that despite a widely heralded police drive, things were "as usual" with dispensers of illegal drinks, got a shock today when they learned the police drive had not started.

It would start in earnest today.

First Deputy Police Commissioner Leach announced that he and Acting Chief Inspector Murphy had spent the night in saloons.

The commerce of the Upper Mississippi diminished from 4,000,000 tons in 1920 to 1,000,000 in 1916.

Deplores Feminine Fashion Demands

BOSTON, April 6.—Feminine fashion demands are deplored by Prof. Felix Frankfurter of Harvard university as unnecessary whims which increase the labor in making clothes 50 per cent. He told the Massachusetts branch of the Consumers' league last night that women should adopt simpler styles to eliminate wasted effort. He urged that the local situation in this country including employment, production and storage, be investigated by a commission of experts.

Socialists Defeated in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, April 6.—Unofficial returns today from all but four precincts revealed an almost complete defeat for socialist candidates in yesterday's municipal election. Mrs. Victor L. Berger, who was elected to the school board, was the only socialist among the winners. Emil Seidel, former socialist mayor, was decisively defeated for alderman-at-large by William B. McKinley, non-partisan. The proposal to adopt daylight saving, was carried.

Cash Collected in Fines in Police Court Turned Over to Town

Of the $3591.45 collected in fines at the Lowell police court during the period covered by January 1-March 31, the sum of $235.65 has just been turned over to the town authorities of Chelmsford. This is the largest amount realized in fines by any of the suburbs, and substantially leads Dracut, the next largest benefactor, which received $150.

weeks. Another intention, to be given for the benefit of those members of the parish who are French-speaking, is planned somewhat later.

"Clean-up Day"

Lawns will be mowed and made tidy and ready for the summer. Streets will be removed from the streets, sidewalks will be made spick and span, and there will be pruning and turning up the soil, throughout the five villages of Chelmsford on April 18, the date set for this year's celebration of "Clean-up Day." The affair, an annual one, is participated in by all residents of the town, with the object of making north, south, east, and central Chelmsford a "spotless spot." Every citizen is expected to turn to, and make his premises one hundred per cent. perfect, together with the street in front of his dwelling, and any adjacent land that is in need of "cleaning up." It is also the annual custom to have luncheon served to the volunteers "white-wings," as the leading residents become for a day, at one of the churches of each district.

Mr. Percy Kimball, of Chelmsford Centre, is director of the demonstration, and heads the sub-committees as general manager of the day's activities. Yesterday evening he announced several special features which will distinguish the day this year. A speaker on community work, whose name is not yet given, will address the residents relative to such town movements as the "clean-up" campaign of a day. A song leader will direct community singing of an appropriate nature, and special plans for a dinner for the workers are being forward.

High School Alumni Dance

Arrangements have been completed by the various committees in charge of the annual Chelmsford high school alumni dance, scheduled to take place on the 15th of the present month at the town hall at Chelmsford Centre. The affair is always one of the leading social events of the season, and is semi-formal. Hippie's orchestra, from the Hotel Somerset Commonwealth avenue, Boston, has been secured by the association to provide music for the occasion.

Fire Department Busy

The newly organized fire department system at the North village has been kept on the jump since Sunday, when a morning blaze at a residence in West Chelmsford ushered in a series of conflagrations which destroyed vast tracts of valuable timber land in that locality. The building fire did but little damage, as the result of prompt response on the part of the department. Later in the day, however, a serious grass fire was encountered. Yesterday the firefighters were busy throughout the day, numerous blazes starting in the undergrowth and stubbornly resisting all efforts to control them. As there were four of these conflagrations in different sections of the territory, and all burning practically simultaneously, it was impossible for the men to accomplish the effective work which would have been possible with all the resources of the department concentrated on one blaze. Assistant District Chief George Shepard, a veteran firefighter, led a squad of nearly 30 men in combatting and most incensing fire, which broke out about 5:20 a. m. on the Adams estate. A porch had been secured to burn, and the flames had got beyond control, due to the amount of dead leaves and branches on the ground. Twenty acres were burned over, and the firemen fought the flames from early morning until 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when the "all out" word was passed. The grass fire on Sunday started just over the Chelmsford line, on the Tyngsboro side, but the local apparatus and personnel were called out. By rapid action, they succeeded in saving two dwellings located on the Chelmsford-Tyngsboro line. Yesterday's most serious blaze, which lasted five hours, was characterized by Assistant Chief Shepard as one of the worst he had ever seen in all his many years' experience as a member of the department. The Adams estate is in West Chelmsford, but the North village department was all there. At 1 o'clock, while the firemen were in the midst of their work on this conflagration, an alarm was sounded for a blaze on Dunstable road, this side of Oak Hill. Three calls came in from the Robbins Hill observatory, where the state has stationed employees whose duty it is to survey the surrounding lowlands for traces of smoke or flame, which are then reported to the various township fire departments. One of these fires was the Dunstable road blaze, the other two were new alarms, constituting four blazes in all.

Stock Farm Sold

Although the stock farm of the United States Rubber company's Silesia, milk has been sold, Mr. Mark Ingham, of the plant, stated yesterday that he had received no information to the effect that the employees' restaurant would be affected to the extent of closing. The butter, milk and other dairy products served at the restaurant have been furnished by the farm in the past, but it is expected that other arrangements will be substituted, as the word for shutting up the restaurant has not been given. Twelve prize cows and a stock bull, together with two track horses, were among

Painting Grammar School

The old grammar school at North Chelmsford is getting a new coat of yellow paint, as the outcome of agitation which produced lively discussion at the recent gathering of citizens. It was felt that after the town hall and the new grammar school had been adorned with fresh paint, the old school should also get a coating to complete the improvements. The authorities have gone the demands one better by not only painting the building, but also making extensive repairs to the interior of the structure, remodeling various parts of the building to improve accommodations there.

VAUDEVILLE ARTISTS
TO BE HONORED

Always among the first to come to the aid of stricken or distressed humanity everywhere, the men and women of the vaudeville stage in this country are to be honored with a special testimonial matinee performance next Friday afternoon, April 8.

The U. S. Rubber Company in this city will join with the 500 other vaudeville theaters of the United States and Canada in donating their entire receipts on the afternoon of that date to the Insurance fund of the National Vaudeville Artists, Inc. The Insurance fund was created a year ago by the Vaudeville Managers' Protective Association, and April 8 has been designated as the date of the annual testimonial performance in support thereof. Out of this fund every paid-up member of the organization—and this includes practically every vaudeville artist seen throughout the season at Keith's theatre in this city—is insured for $1000 without charge. This money is paid to the beneficiaries in event of death without delay or red tape of any kind in a great number of cases. The money paid by the vaudeville artists during the past year have been a goodly sum, and the insurance fund has been a great help to many of the performers. The vaudeville artists are determined to make this year's testimonial an even bigger success.

In addition to the regular matinee performance, there will be a number of extra attractions especially arranged for this performance. The vaudeville artists will come to Lowell in their performances to parish missions, church entertainments and similar affairs and they always respond willingly and without charge. For that reason, Manager H. E. Pickett of Keith's and his staff of attaches are working hard to make next Friday afternoon's testimonial the success the same affair was a year ago, and they ask the public to co-operate with them in their endeavors.

POLICE CENSOR BARS
UNCLOTHED KNEES

DETROIT, April 6.—Theatre owners joined the performers today in answering an edict by the police center which put unclothed knees, even of "directed dancers," under the ban. "Some stagefolk," the censor declared, "have been going too far and it must stop."

His only exception was in national costume, such as the Scotch. The performers and theatre owners, in turn, have asked city officials to clear the streets, particularly those leading from theatres to hotels, of the "Johnny nuisance."

The censor also became the target of many quips, such as suggestions that he exercise his powers on the other side of the curtain, expressions of fear that ear muffs might yet be required on Detroit stages, and reminders that cloth alone was not a mark of decency.

Greek Minister of War Satisfied

ATHENS, April 5.—(By the Associated Press).—Entire satisfaction with the military situation in Anatolia, is expressed by M. Gounaris, minister of war. He returned from Paris yesterday with Prince George, brother of King Constantine, and M. Maximos, director of the National Bank of Greece. They said that all misunderstandings between Greece and the allies had been cleared up. M. Maximos asserted there was no reason for uneasiness, as the country was amply supplied with funds to carry on the war against the Turkish nationalists for three months without the necessity of outside help. The Greek attack on Eski-Shehr, will be resumed in a few days, M. Gounaris says.

LOWELL MAN SAYS HE COULD PREDICT STORMS TWO DAYS AHEAD OF APPEARANCE

Mr. G. B. Perrin, of 22 Brookings St., Lowell, had Rheumatism 'So Badly That He Could Predict Every Change in the Weather. CLOT is Changing This Condition

From Mr. Perrin's testimonial the writer is inclined to believe that he will lose his reputation as a weather prophet as CLOT will certainly get rid of those rheumatic pains. He says: "For a number of years I have had rheumatism very badly throughout my body and on the approach of every storm I could tell that it was coming as I would have terrible pains. "I am taking CLOT and I notice a wonderful improvement and from the results I am getting I know that it will be only a short time until I am able to say that I am entirely free from pain. "The pain is getting less as each day goes by and the last storm did not hardly affect me at all and I think this one statement is enough to convince that CLOT has great merit. "CLOT IS BEING DEMONSTRATED IN LOWELL BY AN EXPERIMENT AT DOWNS DRUG STORE, and is for sale by all good druggists everywhere."

BRITAIN SAYS U.S. INCONSISTENT

LONDON, April 5.—American contentions for equality of treatment for the citizens of all nations in mandated territory are held by the British government to be "scarcely consistent" with the attitude of the United States toward American oil interests in Mexico. The British view is expressed in a long reply to Secretary Coby's note of last Nov. 20, which was made public today.

The note, signed by Lord Curzon, secretary of state for foreign affairs, was delivered March 1 and was in answer to Secretary Coby's exceptions to the San Remo agreement between Great Britain and France relating to petroleum resources in Mesopotamia. That agreement, Lord Curzon said, was not fully understood, it appeared, adding that it "aimed at no monopoly or exclusive rights."

WORK FOR IRELAND BY KITTREDGE COUNCIL

An important meeting of Paul Kittredge council, American Association for Recognition of the Irish Republic, was held at Y.M.C.A. hall last evening with a large attendance and Dr. Donohue presiding. Arrangements were made to assist in having representation at the Chicago convention, at which 6,000 delegates are expected. Several speakers discussed the report of the American commission on the condition of Ireland and pronounced it very conservative, holding that it has understated the character of the pogroms and atrocities committed by crown forces and Unionists in reprisal for attacks by Sinn Fein soldiers.

Reports were made of the meeting of the general relief council held Sunday night and the plan of work adopted.

The following committee was appointed to arrange for an entertainment in aid of the relief fund and to report at the meeting to be held next Wednesday evening: James Beatty, Patrick Kane, John McGowan, Mrs. Owen Craven, Mrs. Lawson, Miss C. Fallon, Mrs. John Clowrey and Mrs. Beatty. A committee on entertainment was chosen consisting of Miss Tansey, Miss McCarron, Mrs. Clowrey, Patrick Kane and Mr. Preston.

CUTS PROPOSED FOR SHIP WORKERS

BOSTON, April 6.—Captain E. E. O'Donnell, chairman of the wage scale committee of the American Steamship Owners' association, made public here today the proposed reduction in wages which his committee will submit to the association at a meeting in New York Friday. The cuts proposed are: Seaman, from $55 to $50 a month; fireman, $50 to $45; others, $45 to $40; cooks and mess men, $30 to $25. The reduced wages are to become effective May 1, if acceptable to the ship owners and the union. More than 50,000 men are involved in the proposed reductions. No change in the pay of officers is proposed until the expiration of the agreement with them on Aug. 15.

RARE BLUE SPRUCE

Ornamental Trees Shipped From Here to New Jersey

After searching throughout the entire United States, a landscape architect planning improvements on the estate of J. T. Lovett of Little Silver, N. J., found the object of his quest—the rare blue spruce, or "Costa Glauca" at the McManmon nurseries, in this city. As a result Mr. McManmon is shipping 150 of the precious trees today, the deal representing approximately $15,000. Twenty-five years ago the local arborist, James McManmon, imported these trees from Holland, where they had been produced by Costa, the great Netherlands tree grower. Soon afterwards the United States shut down on the importation of all plants or other vegetation, which must come with portions of the soil clinging to the roots. This taboo was for the purpose of preventing the coming of insect plagues. The blue spruce is still on, and in consequence the famous "blue spruce" is impossible to obtain anywhere in the U. S. except at the local nurseries. For 25 years Mr. McManmon cared for the trees, which now weigh on an average one ton each. "It has been my life-work and hobby," he said today. The trees are being taken to the Western avenue railroad yards, where they will be taken aboard freight cars by means of a derrick. A large motor truck can carry only eight of them, as they are each about 25 feet in height. Three years ago Mr. McManmon shipped seven carloads to Youngstown, Ohio, where a local magnate turned his estate from a barren desert to a garden spot. At the nurseries there are still many of the trees, some even taller than 25 feet. No American has ever attempted to produce the trees from the seed, as life is too short. It also requires many years to grow them from grafts, and these circumstances, combined with the shutting off of the great source of supply in Holland, make the blue spruce a rarity. In Colorado a near approach to the trees are produced, but these do not satisfy connoisseurs, who demand the real article, and in the present instance the entire country had to be scoured before a batch of them were located in this city.

CHARTER TO ANTI-BLUE LAW LEAGUE

PITTSBURGH, April 6.—The granting of a Delaware charter to the Anti-Blue Law League of America, Inc., was announced today by incorporators of the organization, all residents of Pittsburgh. A. R. Smith, one of the incorporators said that the league was formed in response to a popular demand, from all parts of the nation. He added that the organization opposed a "wide open" Sunday and advocated an "American Sunday" of rest, religion and recreation. The league will seek to prevent the adoption of laws for an "allright" Sunday. Other incorporators declare that the league will form branches in every state where there is blue law agitation.

Chicago Unions Accept Wage Cut

CHICAGO, April 6.—The first agreement by a Chicago labor union to accept a proposed wage reduction, was announced today. The machinery, safe movers and riggers' union voted unanimously at a meeting of 550 members to accept a cut of 12 1/2 per cent, proposed by the contractors' association.

Clan Grant Auxiliary

A feature of last evening's meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary, 20, Clan Grant, 141, O.S.C., which was held last evening in Post 120, G.A.R. hall, was the installation of officers, which was presided over by Grand Deputy Slater Margaret Mellett of Boston, assisted by Past President Jessie Caldwell, Grand Marshal and Past President Jennie Robinson. The officers inducted into office were: President, Jessie Smith; past president, Margaret Reid; recording secretary, Elizabeth Sutherland; treasurer, Minnie Phelps; guard, Janet Sutherland; pianist, Janet MacKinnon; vice president, Margaret Holgate; chaplain, Agnes Turnbull; financial secretary, Isabelle Caldwell; conductor, Jeanne Adams; assistant conductor, Jessie Fraser; chantrel, Jeanne Sherwood. Speeches were made by Grand Deputy Margaret Mellett and President Jessie Smith.

At the close of the meeting a social hour was held during which supper was served. Past President Margaret Reid was presented a string of pearls as an appreciation of her work during the three years she occupied the chair.

SAFE ROADS AND SAFETY FIRST DRIVE

Speed, inexperience and booze are the main causes for accidents as they apply to the operators of automobiles, according to statistics released today by Superintendent of Police Redmond Welch, in connection with the twin drives now on in this city, one of them for "Safe Roads," and the other, for "Safety First." In general, these men-acing factors are being demonstrated as killing and maiming agents, in the film, "Careless America," now showing at local theatres, together with safety talks by prominent local and out-of-town speakers. Pedestrian vices, the figures given by Chief Welch, reveal, are mainly failure to use crossing signals, disregard of the signals of traffic officers, or stepping suddenly from behind parked cars. Fifty per cent. of all accidents have children as their victims. Nearly 200 little ones met their death, and nearly 2,000 were injured in Massachusetts, because of one single matter of carelessness—driving in front of moving cars. The speakers at Lowell playhouses are stressing the necessity for co-operation between these three groups. Supt. Welch today called attention to the fact that "what is needed is not more laws or more police, but a campaign of education." And it is under his direction, and will continue to April 16.

His Honor Mayor Perry D. Thompson, City Auditor J. Joseph Hennessy, Attorney Bennett Silverblatt and Supt. Welch addressed audiences last evening, while at theatrical performances this evening City Solicitor William D. Hagan, and the following attorneys will deliver brief addresses: A. S. Howard, Daniel J. Donahue, Edward J. Tierney and Arthur L. Eno. The slogan of the drive is, "Drivers of cars, keep control of your machines! Pedestrians, use your head as well as your feet! Children, don't dart in front of a moving automobile!"

QUEEN MAKES CANDY

The British queen with Princess Mary recently inspected one of the chocolate factories at Milton, England. During the trip the queen took the place of one of the girl workers for a while and turned out some chocolate bon-bons that children who tasted them said were perfect.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—R. B. Hawley and Edwin P. Shattuck, representing sugar and tobacco interests in Cuba, protested to the state department today against the inclusion of discriminatory tariffs on sugar and tobacco in any tariff bill which may be presented to congress. Similar protests against higher tariffs on sugar and tobacco were made when the emergency tariff bill which President Wilson vetoed was before the last congress.

DON'T FUSS WITH MUSTARD PLASTERS!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker

There's no sense in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole. Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, combined in the form of the present white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters, and will not blister. Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia), sore and sore jaws, hospital skin etc.

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. To have clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets get on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 25c and 50c. Take one or two nightly and not the pleasing results.

FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS

Three Recommendations
Made to Pres. Harding by
Dawes Commission

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Three definite recommendations to President Harding had been agreed upon today by the special commission investigating the care and treatment of disabled service men. They were:

A centralized government with authority to have entire charge of all federal agencies having to do with soldier relief work.

A decentralized administration of service, carrying federal aid as near as possible to the homes of the soldiers throughout the country.

A request for additional appropriations for hospitals, including a permanent building fund, chairman Charles G. Dawes of Chicago, chairman of the commission, said he would be greatly disappointed if the public investigation was not concluded today.

"We will begin work on the report tonight in executive session," he said. Col. P. W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, commander of the commission, expressed pleasure at the progress and progress which the committee had reached. He said the three most important decisions conformed to the legion's relief program and would be of immeasurable value in correcting evils resulting from present divided governmental authority.

Col. Chalmers Jones, former head of the war risk bureau, testified that the work of the bureau was steadily increasing. "New claims are coming in in excess of expectations," he said. "The reason is that the men are awakening to the privileges they have. They had hoped to pull through without government aid but found that impossible."

OAKLAND SALESMEN ARE ENTERTAINED

The Oakland salesmen from Boston, Providence and Worcester were the guests of the Lowell Oakland company at their salesroom in Middlesex street last night, where they enjoyed an evening of business and pleasure in the right proportions. The idea of the gathering was to get the Oakland car salesmen and agencies in closer touch with one another so that the organization as a whole may continue to grow more efficient.

After the visiting "boys" had been shown the sights and show places of Lowell, Arthur Pease, general manager of the Lowell company gathered them in the main salesroom, where chairs and tables had been arranged for an informal business meeting. Then amidst the barrage of smoke Mr. Pease introduced Benjamin S. Ponzner who welcomed the visitors to Lowell. He was followed by Mr. L. B. Sanders, president and general manager of the Dunbar-Sanders Incorporated, and a director of the New England Oakland Co., who delivered some short, snappy and to the point paragraphs on the value of business ethics and acumen, plus the confidence in one's article in putting the business over.

Conan Wallie and Mr. Worcester of the Dunbar-Sanders Incorporated also made a few significant along general selling lines as to the particular merits of the Oakland car and the methods they used in making their record sales.

Following the talks an excellent buffet lunch was served.

HOLD UP TRAIN OF FORMER EMPEROR CHARLES

GRATZ, Styria, April 6.—Former Emperor Charles, who is on his way from Hungary to Switzerland, encountered a threatening situation last night, the attitude of workmen at Bruck, 25 miles north of here, making an immediate continuation of his trip inadvisable. His train was stopped at Frohneiten during the night, and reports received here stated that negotiations which would enable him to proceed were going on. Frohneiten is a small village about 13 miles north of this city.

Train Delayed Five Hours

VINNA, April 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Five hours delay in the journey of former Emperor Charles through Austria on his way back to Switzerland from Hungary after his futile attempt to regain the Hungarian throne, was caused by the holding up of his train until early today at Frohneiten, just to the south of Bruck, in lower Austria, because of threatened demonstrations by the workmen of Bruck.

Several thousand men from the industrial towns in the region gathered at Bruck in the evening and declared they would not let him pass until they had told him what they thought about him and his adventure.

The burgomaster of Bruck stopped the train by telephone messages from Frohneiten, while efforts were made by contented representatives and others to dissuade the workmen from their purpose.

The workers resisted all pleas for several hours, but the crowd was finally dispersed at 1 o'clock this morning.

End of McKearn Case

seem strange if McKearn had said to Mrs. Taylor, after she had cared for him for years, that he intended to leave her all his property, but that it was remarkable that he should have told her so when he first went to live with the Taylors, and had only recently become acquainted with them.

The attorney asserted that the arrangement between the Taylors and McKearn was part of a premeditated attempt to secure control of McKearn's property. He said that the deceased's bank books would show a single deposit in the last 15 years, although he was earning money as a hard-working man who dressed plainly and spent little money. He said that McKearn's seeking assistance in making out an income tax return showed that he had an income of over $200.

He asked the jury to consider what had become of McKearn's income of about $15,000 in the last eight or nine years. Mr. Conahan said that Mrs. Taylor had testified that McKearn had seldom left home, only during working hours, except in the company of herself. He said he could not tell from Mrs. Taylor's testimony whether she went to the Elliptical camp alone with McKearn.

The attorney said McKearn's relatives visited him frequently "until he got into the clutches of the Taylors." He said that Mrs. Taylor had a chance to deny that she was "Miss Taylor," as she had been introduced when she visited the home of Mrs. Taylor, in Somerville.

The attorney asserted that the conspiracy to defraud McKearn was the work of the Taylors and McKearn.

LONGE MURDER TRIAL

Daughter of Accused Man

Depies Previous Stories

Implicating Father

RUTLAND, Vt., April 6.—Peter Longe of Fairhaven who is on trial for murder as a result largely of a story by his daughter, Madeline, 15 years of age, heard the girl declare on the witness stand today that her story was untrue.

Longe is charged with the murder of Owen Hayes, whose body was found in the Castle river at Fairhaven on October 1 last. Longe was arrested two months later after he had caused the arrest of Louis Bishop, a middle-aged neighbor, because of his alleged relations with the Longe girl. The girl visited Bishop in jail and the prisoner informed the authorities that she told him of incidents related by her father which tended to connect Longe with the killing of Hayes.

On the stand today the child, who has embraced her father repeatedly since his arrest, testified that stories which she had repeated both to the attorney general and the grand jury were lies, that the statements were not made to her by her father, but by Bishop.

The latter is now an inmate of the insane asylum at Waterbury.

Medical experts for the prosecution yesterday testified that the death of Hayes was apparently due to drowning, although the state has contended he was killed by a blow on the head and has pointed to a bruise on his forehead as evidence. As a result, counsel for Longe at the opening of court today sought to prevent the child's appearance as a witness for the government, contending that the state had failed to show that murder had been done. The court, however, ordered the case to proceed and Madeline's disavowal followed.

ins were not fighting for the money involved in the case, but for the memory of the cousin they grew up with and were wont to call "Bob."

Stanley E. Qua, of Qu, Howard & Rogers, made the closing argument for the petitioner. He referred to the statement of opposing counsel that the defendants were not fighting for money, but to clear the memory of their cousin, and asked if it was in accord with such an intention that they had come into court and sought to blacken the reputation of their relative and a woman who had done them no harm.

Mr. Qua asserted that of the four witnesses for the contestant, all were interested parties except Mrs. Lalio. The attorney said the cousins were not interested in McKearn until they found that "he had money and a pain in his stomach." He asked if her brother-in-law would have introduced Mrs. Taylor to McKearn if McKearn had been such a "vampire" as had been claimed.

Mr. Qua asked if the neighbors would have been on friendly terms with the Taylors if the relatives claimed to have existed in the household had really existed. He asked if McKearn would have continued to live in the home if he had been afraid of Mr. Taylor when all it would have been necessary for him to do would have been to "open the door and leave." He said that McKearn had "told everybody the Taylors had taken good care of him."

The case was given to the jury early this afternoon.

FOURTH ANNIVERSARY OF U. S. ENTRY IN WAR

U. S. Must Be Consulted

CAMBRIDGE, April 6.—A plan for collecting and presenting to the Widener Memorial library at Memorial university material relating to Woodrow Wilson and his administration, with special reference to documents and data concerning the war, the peace conference and the treaty of Versailles, was announced today by Robert Stuart, Jr., president of the Woodrow Wilson club of Harvard.

The announcement was made in connection with a movement among American colleges today, the fourth anniversary of America's entry into the war, to organize individual memorial clubs as an extension of the memorial idea at Harvard. Stuart said word had been received from many colleges of their participation in the plan.

For the assembly of the historical material a research organization has been formed under the direction of a non-partisan committee of Harvard faculty members. A library with a salary equal to that of a college professor will be employed. Dean C. H. Maskins of the Graduate School of Arts and Science, heads the committee.

At the dean's suggestion, Prof. Frederick J. Turner, one of the committee members, drew up a memorandum on the possibilities of the collection. He suggested the gathering at Harvard of the correspondence files of the archives of organizations identified with the war and with peace movements; the diaries, correspondence, memoirs, etc., of men who were associated with President Wilson in terms of the world war.

The notes form a part of the series begun by Secretary Colby and in which the United States insist upon its full rights as one of the allied and associated powers, and also the right to pass finally upon all mandates before their adoption.

Mr. Colby's notes were addressed to the principal allied powers, and subsequently a copy of them with an appendix dealing specifically with the Japanese controlled island of Yap in the Pacific ocean was sent to the League of Nations council at Geneva. The council in turn transmitted the document to the allied governments with the explanation that the mandate for Yap had been granted by the supreme council.

The latest American communications, prepared by Secretary Hughes, were dated April 1, and by this time have reached the four governments to which they were addressed. All information as to whether or when they would be made public was withheld today at the state department.

It is learned in official circles that the communication bears principally upon the action of the council of the league of nations last December in approving the mandates passed upon at that meeting, including the Japanese mandate over the north Pacific islands, taking in the island of Yap, but that it also outlines the policy of the new administration regarding questions arising from the war, and declares "the approval of the United States to be necessary for a final settlement."

A disposition to recognize the justice of the American claim, was indicated in official quarters, although with the reservation that it was scarcely possible to give the United States the right of veto in the settlement of questions which necessarily were discussed in the absence of representatives of the American government.

Cover All F. S. Rights
WASHINGTON, April 6.—New notes on the subject of mandates have been sent by the American government to the governments of Japan, Great Britain, France and Italy.

The notes are understood to be similar, but the occasion for preparing them is said to be the receipt of Japan's reply to the original American mandate protesting against the Japanese mandate over the former German islands in the Pacific north of the equator.

State department officials refused to discuss the documents, but it was learned that they were broad enough in terms to cover all American rights growing out of the world war.

The announcement was made in connection with a movement among American colleges today, the fourth anniversary of America's entry into the war, to organize individual memorial clubs as an extension of the memorial idea at Harvard. Stuart said word had been received from many colleges of their participation in the plan.

For the assembly of the historical material a research organization has been formed under the direction of a non-partisan committee of Harvard faculty members. A library with a salary equal to that of a college professor will be employed. Dean C. H. Maskins of the Graduate School of Arts and Science, heads the committee.

At the dean's suggestion, Prof. Frederick J. Turner, one of the committee members, drew up a memorandum on the possibilities of the collection. He suggested the gathering at Harvard of the correspondence files of the archives of organizations identified with the war and with peace movements; the diaries, correspondence, memoirs, etc., of men who were associated with President Wilson in terms of the world war.

The notes form a part of the series begun by Secretary Colby and in which the United States insist upon its full rights as one of the allied and associated powers, and also the right to pass finally upon all mandates before their adoption.

Mr. Colby's notes were addressed to the principal allied powers, and subsequently a copy of them with an appendix dealing specifically with the Japanese controlled island of Yap in the Pacific ocean was sent to the League of Nations council at Geneva. The council in turn transmitted the document to the allied governments with the explanation that the mandate for Yap had been granted by the supreme council.

The latest American communications, prepared by Secretary Hughes, were dated April 1, and by this time have reached the four governments to which they were addressed. All information as to whether or when they would be made public was withheld today at the state department.

It is learned in official circles that the communication bears principally upon the action of the council of the league of nations last December in approving the mandates passed upon at that meeting, including the Japanese mandate over the north Pacific islands, taking in the island of Yap, but that it also outlines the policy of the new administration regarding questions arising from the war, and declares "the approval of the United States to be necessary for a final settlement."

A disposition to recognize the justice of the American claim, was indicated in official quarters, although with the reservation that it was scarcely possible to give the United States the right of veto in the settlement of questions which necessarily were discussed in the absence of representatives of the American government.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—New notes on the subject of mandates have been sent by the American government to the governments of Japan, Great Britain, France and Italy.

The notes are understood to be similar, but the occasion for preparing them is said to be the receipt of Japan's reply to the original American mandate protesting against the Japanese mandate over the former German islands in the Pacific north of the equator.

State department officials refused to discuss the documents, but it was learned that they were broad enough in terms to cover all American rights growing out of the world war.

Lowell Greeks Celebrate Centennial Of Their Old Home Independence

SCENES IN THE LOCAL GREEK COMMUNITY SHOWING FLAGS SUSPENDED AT MARKET AND JEFFERSON STREETS AND DECORATIONS ON BUILDINGS IN MARKET STREET

The buildings in the local Greek colony are ablaze with color in anticipation of the centennial of Greek independence which comes tomorrow, April 7, but which will be formally observed next Sunday, with a mass meeting and parade.

Preparations for the observance are going on apace and there is hardly a store or dwelling place in the upper Market and Jefferson street sections which is not adorned with the flags of this country and Greece, the red, white and blue blending with the pale blue and white of the Hellenes.

Even in the downtown section where business places are conducted by Greek proprietors, the flags of the two countries are very much in prominence and will be kept in view until after Sunday.

Many people who had not read of the coming celebration were somewhat puzzled at the display this morning, but inquiry of the employees of any of the places where the huzzling was displayed soon brought an assuring and proud answer.

In Market street, the decorations begin just above Dutton street and run through almost without intermission to Salem street. In Jefferson, Adams and other streets of the Greek community, the same display is found and conversation with any member of the community results in an enthusiastic description of Greece's fight for independence and her present struggle with the Turks. The deeds of those who were at Salamis, Thermopylae and other battles noted in Hellenic history are recounted in detail and leaves one with no doubt that tomorrow's anniversary will be observed in a patriotic and fitting manner.

But despite their enthusiasm for their native country, the local Hellenes never lose sight of the fact that the United States is their adopted country and that they are now residing here. For every Greek flag there is an American flag, and in some places the American bunting predominates.

Celebration Sunday
Final plans for the big celebration Sunday will be made at a meeting of the officers of the community, who constitute a committee on arrangements, which will be held this evening, in the school in Worthen street. The meeting will be presided over by President Chris Ziozgos of the community, and it is expected that word will be received from the various organizations that have been invited to take part in the street parade.

The celebration will be held Sunday afternoon, and it is expected that every Greek-speaking resident of this city will take part in the festivities and the day will be one of rejoicing. It was announced today that there will be two speakers at the mass

NO UNDUE INFLUENCE

Jury Returns a Verdict in Robert J. McKearn Contested Will Case

The jury in the superior court that has been considering the Robert J. McKearn contested will case returned a verdict this afternoon. To the question, submitted by the probate court, as to whether the testator had been subjected to undue influence in making his final disposition of his property, the answer of the jury was in the negative. The case has been on trial for two days before Judge Franklin T. Hammond. It was charged by the contestant, Mae M. Pisco of Somerville, that Mrs. Isabelle Taylor had exercised undue influence over McKearn to secure possession of his property after his death. McKearn had made his home in the Taylor family for a number of years, and Mrs. Taylor is the beneficiary under the will that he left. Attorney Dennis J. Mur-

E. A. Coughlin, attorney for the contestant, said in opening that it would be necessary for him to criticize a woman somewhat stringently and harshly. He said that in carrying out a scheme, that may have originated in England, the Taylors had broken up the pleasant relations that existed between McKearn and Mrs. Sabina Lafale, and that the Taylors had been responsible for putting Mrs. Lafale out of the small store, belonging to McKearn, on Main street, that Mr. Taylor later occupied.

Mr. Coughlin said that it might not

GOVERNOR'S COUNCIL ABANDONS INQUIRY

BOSTON, April 6.—The governor's council today abandoned its inquiry into alleged irregular transactions by members of the legislature of 1918 at the time of the passage of the act putting the Boston Elevated railway under public control. Its action was taken after the receipt from Bank Commissioner Allen of data requested by the council regarding the records of loans to legislators found in the several banks that the commissioner took over recently. The commissioner's report was forwarded by the council in its original seal to the legislative committee appointed several days ago to prosecute a broader investigation embracing both the 1918 and 1919 legislatures.

RIVER POWER DEVELOPMENT

Interesting Exposition of Possibility of St. Lawrence River Development

And Its Beneficial Effect on New England Industries and Commerce

Head of New England Power Co. Addresses Local Chamber of Commerce

A decidedly interesting, forceful and clear exposition of the possibilities of the development of the St. Lawrence river and its direct, beneficial effect on New England's industries, utilities and commerce was given by Henry F. Harriman of Boston, president of the New England Power company, former president of the Boston chamber of commerce and an authority on hydro-electric power and transportation in their relation to industrial and port development, at the first monthly noon-day meeting of the membership of the Lowell chamber of commerce at the New American restaurant today.

Nearly 200 members of the chamber were on hand and the success which attended the first monthly luncheon augurs well for future affairs of a similar nature. An appetizing luncheon was served promptly at 12:20.

STRAPHANGING IN AIRPLANES LATEST

LONDON, April 6.—London has long known the straphanger in subway, street car and omnibus, but only recently the first instance of aerial straphanging was recorded. On the second day of the resumed British air service to Paris, it was found that one of the departing planes had no seats for three of its passengers.

They made the journey standing in the passageway, holding onto the luggage racks.

CONTRACT FOR CEMENT

Chamber of Commerce Suggests That City Be Duly Protected

The board of directors of the chamber of commerce have sent a letter to the Portland Cement Co. in reference to the contract for 4000 barrels of Portland cement, and suggested that as a decline in the price of this commodity is predicted, the city should be protected in the premises.

In the letter of Mr. Foye, Secretary Wells says:

It has come to the attention of some of the members of the board of directors that a marked decline in this commodity has been predicted and they deem it wise business policy to guard against this reduction in price.

Do you, in contracting with any concern for delivery of cement, include in the contract an agreement for a guaranty against price decline until the work contemplated is completed?

It is assumed that you have such provision in the contract for cement. If not, however, the board suggests that this should be done.

41 MEN IN CHAINS

Charged With Mutinous Conduct and Robbery on the High Seas

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 6.—Shackled to a long chain, 41 men from the crew of the steamer Iverneath, charged with mutinous conduct and robbery of United States and Canadian mail on the high seas, were taken prisoners off the steamer Britannia, of the Fabra Line, when she docked here today by United States Marshal Richards.

According to G. Fraser, purser, and Dr. L. G. Stewart, surgeon of the steamer Manoa, the men held here were transferred from the steamer Iverneath at Antwerp in February for transportation to Canada and while on the Manoa on the high seas between Antwerp and Horta, Azores, they robbed mail bags, stole watches and other jewelry from passengers and took valuables from the ship's cargo. They were placed under arrest at Horta when the Manoa was driven ashore there by a storm and held in a Portuguese prison there for the American consul who had them shipped here for federal investigation. The Manoa at the time of the alleged mutinous behavior of the Iverneath's men, was flying the American flag, although in the service of the Canadian Steamship Co. of Montreal.

Hitch Develops in the Proposed Resumption of Negotiations Between British Miners and Mine Owners

Irish Banker Prevents Shooting of U. S. Consul by British Troops

CORK, April 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Mason Mitchell, United States consul in Queenstown, had a narrow escape from being shot a few days ago while motoring from Queenstown to Cork. It was learned today. He was riding with Benjamin Harrigan, an official of the Ford works. Both men are slightly deaf, and when the automobile passed a group of soldiers in the street, they failed to hear the challenge to halt. The officer in charge ordered the men to take aim and was about to give the word to fire on the car, when Manager Pelly of the Hibernian bank of Cork, who witnessed the incident rushed in front of the raised rifles, shouting: "Don't shoot; that is the American consul." The officer immediately ordered his men to lower their rifles.

Herrick To Accept Ambassadorship

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Myron T. Herrick has decided to accept appointment as American ambassador to France, a post he filled under President Taft and which he occupied at the beginning of the world war. Mr. Herrick's formal nomination will be made soon, and he will go to France in the early summer.

U. S. MUST BE CONSULTED

PARIS, April 6.—A note of considerable length from Charles F. Hughes, American secretary of state has been received by the French foreign office through the American embassy here. The document, which bears the date of April 4, affirms the rights of the United States in all settlements arising from the world war.

Identical communications were sent to the British and Italian governments. It is understood with notice that the text will be issued at the state department in Washington immediately after all the interested governments have received it.

"Forlinox," political editor of the Echo de Paris, who appears to have had access to the note, declares he considers it means that America declines to recognize any decision of the allies in the treaty of Versailles, or taken by the supreme council or by

Allies Object to Refusal of Access to Kiel Canal to British Steamer

PARIS, April 6.—(By the Associated Press).—The council of ambassadors today approved the draft of a note to Germany, protesting against the refusal of access to the Kiel canal last month to the British steamer Wimbledon, bound for Danzig, under charter by a French company and loaded with war materials for Poland.

The protest recalls that the treaty of Versailles declares the Kiel canal shall be free of access to the ships of war and commerce of all nations not at war with Germany.

DENOUNCES LEWISTON WATER DEPARTMENT

LEWISTON, Me., April 6.—Mayor Newell, in a letter made public this morning declares the management of the water department to be "that of boys instead of men, of stupidity, instead of intelligence, of dishonesty instead of faithful discharge of the duties devolving upon public servants."

He demands the discharge of three employees and a thorough accounting of the affairs of the department.

BOTH SIDES HAD ACCEPTED OFFER

LONDON, April 6.—(By the Associated Press)—A hitch developed this evening in the proposed resumption of negotiations between representatives of the striking coal miners and the mine owners, it was announced in the house of commons by Premier Lloyd George.

Accept Offer

LONDON, April 6.—(By the Associated Press)—The great industrial crisis which Great Britain faced as a result of the bitter wage war between the mine owners and the miners, with strikes by the railwaymen and the transport workers, in addition to the miners' strike threatening the public, has found at least temporary relief.

At the eleventh hour, Prime Minister Lloyd George intervened with an invitation to both sides of the mining dispute to meet representatives of the government and reopen negotiations. After serious deliberation the contending forces decided to accept the mediation offer. No time has as yet been set for the reopening of the discussions, but the acceptance of the premier's invitation, it is pointed out, can be taken only to mean that the colleagues of the miners in the triple alliance—the railwaymen and the transport workers—will take no active measures to support the miners while the peace negotiations are proceeding.

To Support Strikers
LONDON, April 6.—Decision to support the British miners in their strike, was reached by the Transport Workers' federation today.

The vote was unanimous and it was decided to meet in conference immediately with delegates of the National Union of Railwaymen and the Miners' union, for the purpose of securing action on the strike situation by the "triple alliance."

The Transport federation includes most of the big waterway workers' unions, including carmen, cabmen and some general labor union. In 1919 it had a membership of 313,000.

O'DEA SEIZES STILLS

Arrests Made for Alleged Dry Law Violations

George Maynard of C street, and Michael Gardner of Bolavert street were arrested today on charges of violating the national prohibition law, it was announced by Federal Officer John P. O'Dea, who raided the premises of the two men and found stills. At the Bolavert street building a still was discovered which had been reduced to limits of all possible simplicity. A large can bearing the label of a popular automobile oil, a worm, and a wooden bucket constituted the entire apparatus.

BERESNACK MAKES DENIAL

BOSTON, April 6.—Samuel Beresnack, a prohibition agent, who is on trial in the federal court, charged with asking and accepting a bribe made general denial today of testimony by Oscar Russell of Westboro, who declared he gave Beresnack $175 the day after his place was raided. He denied that Russell was ever at his house or that he ever told him "that $175 would make the case all right."

WHISKEY SOLD FOR $1 A CASE

NEW YORK, April 6.—Whiskey—the old "red eye" of pre-prohibition days—sold in Brooklyn today for a dollar a case.

The price was not regulated by the law of supply and demand. It was simply that the federal authorities were disposing of seized liquor to private and city hospitals for a nominal sum. Government hospitals got it free.

FIRE DRILL AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Students of the high school held a fire drill shortly before noon today, and within a few seconds the entire building was emptied. Every student and teacher made his or her exit in an orderly manner from the Anne street door, this being the first time that only one exit was used in a drill of this sort. It was tried out to see how quickly the building could be emptied if there had been a fire at the Kirk street end of the building.

HELD ANNUAL MEETING

Fish and Game Club Elects

Officers—Address By Congressman Rogers

At the annual meeting of the Lowell Fish and Game association held last evening Simon B. Harris was re-elected president and Willis S. Holt was re-elected secretary. Despite the fact that Mr. Harris had stated at a previous meeting and had also announced in The Sun that he would not be a candidate for re-election, the association to a man, insisted upon his acceptance of another term. "When I said I would not be a candidate for re-election," said Mr. Harris, "I meant it, but what is a man to do? The odds are against me. I will accept." The president was elected by the Australian method, but by Mr. Harris' election was by acclamation the ballot was not used in his case.

A feature of the meeting was an address by Congressman John Jacob Rogers, including interesting reference to the migratory fish question. He confessed that he was not thoroughly in-the building of the fishway, the letter to be submitted to President Harris for his approval.

President Harris was visibly affected by the insistence of the association that he serve another term. "When I said I wouldn't be a candidate for re-election," said Mr. Harris, "I meant it. It occurred to me that some younger man should be given a chance and I thought I had done my bit as head of the organization. But if it is the unanimous desire of the members to have me serve them longer, I will accept. I feel deeply the compliment and honor you have paid me, and I assure you that I will continue to do my utmost for the continued welfare and success of the association. I thank the members, too, for their splendid co-operation in the past and I know that continued assistance will be mine without the asking. We have an organization of which we may well feel proud. We have carried out the principles on which the organization was founded a few short years ago and we will continue along that same line, with justice for all and malice toward none. I thank you gentlemen for the confidence you have made manifest by unanimous action."

Another very pleasing feature of the meeting was contained in the applications for memberships brought in by members who are on the job every minute. Last year twenty-five new members were taken in at the annual meeting and this year the number was 45. This puts the total membership well over the 800 mark.

Officers Elected
The officers elected, other than the president and secretary, were as follows: First vice president, Dr. C. B. Lowell; second vice president, Jos. Livingston; treasurer, R. J. Hayes; executive committee, George W. Dearborn, Luther W. Faulkner, John Kenesick, William J. Kilburn and Frank A. Griffin.

Secretary's Report
The secretary's report was quite lengthy, giving in detail the various activities of the year, accounts of which have been published from time to time in The Sun. That part of the report dealing with inspection and research work, not heretofore appearing in detail in the press, was as follows:

On May 5, the following ponds were inspected by members of the U. S. department of fisheries on order of U. S. Commissioner Dr. H. M. Smith of Washington, D. C.: Burgess and Forge Long-Sought-for, located pond in Littleton, Westford; the pond of Superintendent Waldo F. Hubbard of the U. S. Fish Hatcheries station at Nashua, N. H.; Capt. E. K. Burnham, Orrin Kell of U. S. Fisheries. Your secretary and treasurer, R. F. Hayes, were requested to act as guides and show where the ponds were located.

The reason of this inspection was to determine, if possible, if the ponds named were suitable for rainbow trout as many thousands of the same have been introduced in them during the past few years and without any of the same being caught or seen.

Their report condensed is as follows: "We believe that this trout will do well in both Forge and Spectacle ponds as both ponds have swift running water

Although they're so much better, Lloyd Carriages and Wicker Furniture are not the most expensive, because Marshall B. running in, and this particular trout must have swift running water to spawn in; the other ponds in question have no swift running brooks running in, therefore this trout could not reproduce and would leave any such pond if the outlet was open so that it might do so.

They also said that they thought that the rainbows might be found in both Forge and Spectacle ponds if the water used during the fly fishing season.

On June 15, 16 and 17, research work by Chief Deputy Bourne and Deputy Edward Buckens of the state department of fisheries and game, assisted by your secretary, was made on Forge pond for the purpose of trying to locate the rainbow trout. Our efforts to locate the trout were disappointing.

Hundreds of white and yellow perch as well as pike and pickerel were found and returned to the pond.

It was thought that the net we were using was not deep enough as it was only 10 feet deep and 300 feet in length, the length was perhaps right but the depth should be at least 20

BLACKHEADS GO QUICK
BY THIS SIMPLE METHOD
Blackheads—big ones or little ones—soft ones or hard ones—any part of the face go quick by a simple method that just dissolves them. To do this put about two ounces of calamine powder from your drugstore, sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge, rub over the blackheads busily for a few seconds and wash off. You'll wonder where the blackheads have gone. The calamine powder and the hot water have just dissolved them. Pinching and squeezing blackheads only open the pores of the skin and leave them open and unsightly—and unless the blackheads are big and soft they will not come out while the simple application of calamine powder and water dissolves them, right out, leaving the skin soft and the pores in their natural condition. You can get calamine powder at any drug store and if you are troubled with these unsightly blemishes you should certainly try this simple method.—Adv.

Doctor Tells How to Strengthen Eyesight 50 Per Cent in One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weakness? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis, there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitude more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of wearing glasses. Many troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a four-ounce glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

NOTE: Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon-Opto is a remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The maximum guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time. In many instances or refused the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few remedies for regular use in almost every family." It is sold in Lowell and vicinity by all good druggists.—Adv.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

"MR. SEAL'S STORY"

"I'LL TELL YOU ABOUT IT," SAID MR. SEAL.

No, Mr. Seal had decided to settle down and have a quiet home and marry a hundred wives and have a thousand children, and he didn't like it a bit when Mrs. Seal (the first wife he had chosen) said would he please to tell her all about the circus he used to be in.

By and by Mr. Seal said, "All right, my love, I'll tell you all about it." And he began:

"First of all a circus is owned by a creature called a man. I called him a 'man' because he is a man. 'What does it look like?' 'Well,' said Mr. Seal, 'something like our cousin, the walrus, on account of having a bristly mustache, but not always. Sometimes a man looks more like our other cousin, the sea-horse, because long hair grows all over the top of his head. Then it's called a lady.'"

"Is a lady pretty?" asked Mrs. Seal. "It depends," said Mr. Seal thoughtfully. "I've seen 'em all dressed in

shiny pink things a sailing around through the air over my head, jumping from one rope to another, and they were the loveliest. 'What was I saying?' 'You were talking about pretty pink things,' nodded Mrs. Seal. 'I forgot what you called them.' Mr. Seal blinked. He hadn't meant to be so forgetful of himself and say that anything about a circus was nice. 'They were awful creatures,' he remarked, scowling fiercely. 'Scare you to death!' he declared.

Mrs. Seal shivered. 'You must have been very brave!' she admired.

"Oh, just a trifle!" Mr. Seal swelled out his chest in the middle.

"What do men look like?" asked Mrs. Seal.

"A head apiece, four flippers, and they stand on the hind ones, and they can bend in the middle."

"How awful!" shuddered Mrs. Seal. (To Be Continued)

Jewish Elks Protest Ham's Remarks at Veterans' Dinner in Boston

BOSTON, April 6.—The visit of the national commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, William A. Ketcham of Indianapolis, to Boston stirred up two hornets' nests yesterday.

His brief address to the members of the house of representatives at the state house in the afternoon, in which he indirectly touched on the Irish question, resulted in protests later by some of the members of that body, while in the evening a number of Jewish members of the Elks held an indignation conference following an address by Commander Benjamin A. Ham of South Boston, at a dinner to the commander-in-chief at the Elks' home at which they said Mr. Ham made uncomplimentary references to the Jewish race.

An address before the Massachusetts house of representatives yesterday afternoon by Commander-in-Chief Ketcham, in which he criticized the "Villard committee of 100," caused 39 members of the house and senate to sign a statement condemning Mr. Ketcham's utterances.

Commander Ketcham had accepted an invitation to address the house, and in the course of his remarks urged his hearers to see that "what the men won on the battlefield of France is not lost in this country."

He demanded to know by what right Oswald G. Villard and others criticize "our former allies in the Great War." Mr. Ketcham declared that neither the committee of 100, which investigated the situation in Ireland, nor his recently-published conclusions truly represented the sentiment of the American people, because its personnel was not made up of members of such patriotic organizations as the Grand Army of the Republic or the American Legion, the members of which had jeopardized their lives to preserve the government.

"It was an impertinence," he asserted, "for any self-appointed body like the committee of 100 to pass on foreign political situations."

Remembering that the father of Oswald Garrison Villard, in whom the committee owed its existence, was a Bavarian by birth, the commander said:

"Mr. Villard, even though he be a grandson of William Lloyd Garrison, the great emancipator, has no right to assume to represent me or the people of this nation."

"We do not want German-Americans, Irish-Americans, or Russian-Americans, but just plain, every-day Americans," said Mr. Ketcham. He added that he was conscious that he was speaking in a city in which there are more Irishmen than in Dublin.

After the speech of Commander-in-Chief Ketcham, Representatives Paul H. Hines of South Boston and Patrick J. Melody of the South End circulated a petition, addressed to Speaker Young, requesting the remarks of the G.A.R. commander, and 39 members of the house and senate signed it.

The petition was as follows:

"The undersigned members of the legislature, vigorously resent the re-

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

On legal affidavit, John Hart Brittain, business man, certified to this: "My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. An expert said that he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth."

"Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures show here are from my photographs."

INDIANS' SECRET OF HAIR GROWTH

Mr. Brittain certified further: "At a time when I had become discouraged at trying to grow my hair again, I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian 'medicine man' who had an elixir that he asserted would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days."

True Hair Grower at Last

"That I was astonished and happy in expressing my state of mind at the drug store. Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the then mysterious formula. I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this, now called KOTALKO, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist. That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved."

It has been proved in very many cases that hair roots fall out not even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, alopecia areata, or certain other hair or scalp disorders.

marks made by W. A. Ketcham, national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, in reference to the "Villard Committee of One Hundred," and to Americans of Irish extraction and all other reference to the sympathizers of Ireland.

Commander Ketcham, in opening his remarks, stated that he was speaking for the entire membership of the Grand Army of the Republic.

"As members of the legislature, we doubt his authority to express such sentiments as coming from the entire personnel of the Grand Army of the Republic. We are convinced that there are too many members of Irish birth and Irish descent, members of the G.A.R., to allow any man to express the sentiments given by Commander Ketcham.

His remarks in regard to the Villard committee, composed of 100 not cent. Americans, were entirely uncalled for and unpatriotic. They are along the same lines and are undoubtedly based upon a reading of the protest made by Ambassador Geddes on the report issued by this committee and not on a report of the committee itself.

Jewish Members Indignant BOSTON, April 6.—Informal protests were aroused at the G.A.R. dinner in the Elks home by remarks of speakers. The indignant group, who had nothing to do with the G.A.R. dinner, happened to have been dining at a table in the cafe, where they overheard the speeches. After talking the matter over in no pleasant mood, in the corridor of the building, they decided that under the circumstances they had better make no formal protest, but seem to "forget it."

secrteness of the Sabbath," and he hoped that "wholehearted Americanism, such as is being taught in the west, will be taught in Boston."

Vice Commander-in-Chief Hosley declared that if he had his way, "the agitators who inculcate Red doctrines in the minds of the ignorant immigrants in the country would be stood up against a blank wall and consigned to a firing squad."

He charged that the Japanese, the Germans and other nations are spending money on propaganda in this country. He said he thanked God that "the men at the head of the war and the navy departments in Washington are men who have seen military service and will, if permitted, place the United States in a condition of military preparedness never hitherto known."

Col. J. Payson Bradley, past commander of the Massachusetts department, asserted that these are perilous times, instancing reports of strikes and riots in the newspapers as evidence. He said that when the police have to "draw their guns" to match those of rioters in Boston streets there is a great need for teaching of law and order. "Any man who raises his voice against the state or nation should be struck down, even be his own brother," said he.

Commenting on the present widespread strikes, Col. Bradley said that the establishment with which he is connected kept employs at work for months "doing nothing," paying their wages from profits made when times were good.

He admitted the right of every man as a free American to refuse to work when he chooses, but he added: "If a man chooses to work for me and an-

NEWS FROM CHELMSFORD

Special Meeting to Discuss Appropriation for Motor Fire Apparatus

Chelmsford Members of "Tin Can Tourists' Colony"

Back From Florida

A special meeting at Chelmsford is scheduled for the coming month, for the purpose of discussing an appropriation of funds for the purchase of motor fire apparatus. The present plans are to purchase a motor fire truck, one of two triple combination engines. One of these is intended to cover the South and East villages, while the North district will be protected by the other, which will be stationed at No. Chelmsford. At the coming meeting, the particular type of apparatus to be secured will be taken up, and the advantages of various makes will be considered. At present the equipment of the two companies is entirely horse-drawn and consists of wagons and chemicals. But with the beginning of motorization a new step towards added efficiency will be taken. Chelmsford is a bad place for forest and grass fires, which sometimes menace the various villages. Quick action, which cannot always be secured in all weathers by the horse-drawn apparatus, is necessary at times, and this will be aided by means of the two proposed auto combinations. The voters will have to place their sanction on the project before the funds can be secured, but it is expected that a sufficiently large amount will be forthcoming because of the vital importance of the matter.

Back from Florida

Members of Chelmsford's Florida winter colony, who gradually arriving home after spending the cold months at various resorts in the peninsula, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Wright, of High street, together with Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Emerson, of Bartlett street, have just reached their homes after being members of the famous "Tin Can Tourists' Colony," at Solo park, Tampa, Fla., since early in November. Since they left Chelmsford by automobile, Oct. 21, and headed south, the party spent over canvas every night, rain or shine, warm or cool, until the night of April 1, when they arrived at Newark, N. J., on their homeward trip. They made the journey northward in leisurely fashion, leaving Florida on March 14, and spending more than two weeks en route. The automobile was their headquarters at all times, Mr. Wright and Mr. Emerson being alternately at the wheel. In spite of tough roads encountered at times, they were free of accidents and tire trouble never bothered them. Coming down the coast, the bridges washed away in many places, and were obliged to ford several swollen streams. Nevertheless, they passed through all difficulties without having to seek assistance from the traditional farmer's mule. They never found it necessary to be "pulled out." Coming back, however, they had to halt during the cold snap which swept the east from the Gulf to Maine. Many of the tourists, who traveled more or less in a group, had radiator trouble, some of the radiators exploding. But the Wrights and Emersons, while their radiator was frozen, underwent no further difficulty than an inability to proceed, and they were merely compelled to incur the necessity of no repairs to the car. Hundreds upon hundreds of villages and hamlets were passed through on the home like, besides dozens of cities, some of them the largest in the country. Leaving Tampa on the 14th, they headed east and north, hitting Milton, Fla., as the last city in that state of any importance. Then they went through Thomasville, Macon, Athens, and Madison, Georgia, and from that state started across South Carolina, passing through Anderson and Spartanburg. They were in Gastonia and Charlotte, North Carolina, and from the Tar Heel state proceeded into Virginia, hitting Boyden, Petersburg and finally Richmond, Fredericksburg and Alexandria. The larger cities were then encountered and the party went through Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Newark. From the New Jersey metropolis they also hit the miles, starting from the city in the morning and ending in Chelmsford that night. The "Tin Can settlement" has gained country-wide fame for its novelty as a city of canvas and automobiles. It springs up with the coming of the autumn, and vanishes magically with the return of the warmer weather. So large and bustling a community is created by the tourists, that during the next winter they have even been publishing a newspaper of their own, the "Tin Can News." Mr. Wright is a member of the real estate firm of Wright & Bean, located on Central street, this city. In the Bradley building.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Seale of Acton street, are arriving home within short time, as they left St. Augustine, Fla., on Monday. Mr. Seale has been playing in the orchestra of St. Augustine hostelry during the winter months, being an accomplished professional cellist.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Atwood will leave Chelmsford for a winter colony on the shores of Lake Tahoe, Calif., next Thursday, bound for Chelmsford.

In all it is estimated that nearly 40 families whose homes are at Chelmsford have spent the past winter at southern resorts, most of them having been in Florida. It is a custom which usually results in the formation of a Chelmsford colony in the south. High street often presents a deserted appearance during the cold months, as a result of the migration of inhabitants to the more halcyon climate. Chelmsford residents pass each other on the roads, all the way from here to the tip of the Florida peninsula, the frozen nose between the Atlantic Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico.

Cut Laborers' Pay
A slash both in the working hours and in the pay of North Chelmsford street laborers has been made by the local board of selectmen. The sum of 40 cents per hour takes the place of the former 50-cent per hour scale, while the working week is reduced from 48 to 44 hours. This reduced the weekly compensation by $6.40, from $24.00 to $17.60.

The annual banquet of the North Chelmsford bowling league is scheduled to take place Thursday, April 14, at St. John's hall. A program of speeches and other entertainment is being arranged for the occasion. At present a post-season tournament is being held by the league.

Rev. Jenkinson Accepts New Pastorale—Grange News Other Items

Rev. Egbert Jenkinson, pastor of the Dracut Congregational church, has tendered his resignation to accept a position as pastor at Kingston, R. I. The resignation will become effective a week from next Sunday, at which time the young minister will preach his farewell sermon. Rev. Mr. Jenkinson has been occupying his pulpit at the Centre church for some time despite the fact that he has not yet been ordained. His ordination will take place in Brighton next June. His successor will be elected in the near future.

Dracut Grange
A largely attended meeting of Dracut grange was held last night in Grange hall, Centre village with Master Augustus West in the chair. Considerable business was transacted, supper was served and the fourth degree was conferred on a large number of candidates.

Firemen Kept Busy
The firemen of the town are kept busy these days responding to alarms for grass fires. Sunday and Monday there were no less than six alarms for brush fires, some in the Collinsville district and others in the Centre. This is the time of the year that the firemen are most needed, as the dry weather and the value of a motorized department.

Business Picking Up
It is said that business is picking up in the two mills of the town. The Beaver Brook mill in Collinsville, which has been down for several months, has been gradually resuming operations. Several departments are now in operation and it is expected that before a great while the entire plant will be running. The Merrimack Woolen company at the Navy Yard is operating some of its departments day and night. The entire plant is on a full-time schedule and the spinning and weaving rooms are being operated with two shifts.

Special Town Meeting
The selectmen are about to call a special meeting of the voters of the town for the purpose of taking action on the establishment of voting precincts in various parts of the village. The selectmen, acting as a committee, have decided to establish voting booths in Collinsville, Navy Yard, Centre and Kenwood, but their action has to be approved by the voters. Another important matter to be brought to the attention of the voters is the report of the selectmen, highway commissioners and school committee on the value of the equipment of their respective departments. The officials of the various departments have been busy during the past few weeks taking inventory and will be ready at the next meeting to inform the voters concerning the property of the town departments. This will be the first time in the history of the town that an inventory has been taken and a report submitted to the voters.

School Department
The town schools reopened last Monday after being closed a week, during which the pupils enjoyed their annual Easter vacation. The regular meeting of the school board will be held in the quarters of the committee at the Centre school tomorrow evening. Repairs in the various schools of the town for the coming year will be discussed and considerable business will be transacted. The meeting will be presided over by Chairman Albert N. Fox.

The District School Committee, which is composed of members of the school boards from Dracut, North Reading, Tyngsboro and Tewksbury, will be held next Tuesday at the Y.M.C.A. in this city for the purpose of organizing for the year. The Dracut representatives on the board are as follows: Albert N. Fox, Edward E. Bennett and Nelson E. Huntley.

New Dance Hall
J. Omer Allard, who owns a farm on the Long pond road, has recently purchased the old Schofield dining hall and will move it to the shores of the pond on his own land. It is said that Mr. Allard will convert the building into a dance hall and that it will be ready before the warm weather sets in.

Lakeview Chapel
The Lakeview chapel, which is under the direction of Rev. M. A. Gilbride, pastor of St. Mary's church, Collinsville, will receive for services Sunday, May 20, at which time it is expected a great many of the camps on the shores of Lake Massacuppie will be occupied. It was learned yesterday that a great number of the summer buildings in that district have been leased for the season to residents of Boston.

Road Work
Superintendent William Shanks, of the highways department is preparing an elaborate program of summer road work. At present he has a gang of about 15 men employed in cleaning the roads. They are now working in the Collinsville district and expect to shift activities to the Centre in the latter part of the week.

Road construction will not start until a couple of weeks, when the Nashua road from Richardson farm will be tackled. This road will be constructed as far as Pease's farm at an expense of about $500. Then a portion of Lakeview avenue from Canney's corner will be macadamized at a cost of $4000. The sum of $40,000 will be spent on Pleasant street to Hovey square, and $12,000 on Marsh Hill road. The state will spend $10,000 to finish the East Dracut road as far as the Methuen line and it is believed that the work will be done by the Dracut men under the direction of Supt. Shanks. This work has been planned for last year, but because of the high cost of labor, etc., activities were postponed.

announced yesterday that the two weeks mission which will take place at the church beginning April 17, is to be conducted by Father Jerome and Father Philip, both of the Passolust monastery, at Brighton, Mass. The Brighton monastery is located in the great Roman Catholic outflow of Boston, where there also are St. Elizabeth's hospital, the "Cenacle" convent, St. John's seminary for students who are to be secular priests of the diocese, and Boston college. The Jesuit institution of learning. The first week of the mission will be for the women of the parish, while the men's week will follow. Fathers Jerome and Philip will be in charge during both

Minstrel Show by Republican League—Legion Post Auxiliary—Other News

The town hall at Billerica Centre was last evening the scene of a large and pretty gathering, the occasion being a minstrel performance under the auspices of the Republican League of Massachusetts. Nothing was spared to make the affair a most entertaining one, and the success achieved reflected great credit upon the organizers. The performance was given once before in Forge Village and Littleton, but last evening was the first opportunity afforded the Billerica folks to witness this delightful performance, and the hall was crowded to the doors.

A feature of the program was vocal selections by Albert Edmund Brown of this city, former professor of music at the State Normal school, who entertained in a very efficient manner with a fine selection of songs. Then there was a 10-minute sketch by Will H. Adams, entitled "All by Himself." Mr. Adams was formerly on the Keith circuit and his humor was very pleasing. The minstrel part of the program was well done, particularly pleasing were the chorus numbers under the direction of Mr. Brown. Participating in the chorus were the following Billerica residents: Herbert J. Jacobs, Oliver P. Greenwood, Samuel A. McQuaid, Ralph L. Dodge and A. W. Stearns.

Ladies' Auxiliary
A regular business meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary, Billerica post, American legion, was held last evening in Union hall, North village. There was a large attendance, considerable business was transacted and the president, Mrs. James Ritchie, occupied the chair. At the close of the business session a social hour was enjoyed, during which members of the post were guests. An entertainment program was given under the direction of Mrs. Frederick Quinn, chairman of the entertainment committee, and luncheon was served.

Selectmen's Meeting
At a recent meeting of the board of selectmen house bill, No. 230, entitled "An act to provide for additional appointments in the division of public safety in the department of public safety," was endorsed. This bill, which is now being considered by both branches of the legislature, provides for rural police and it enabled to give farmers and other residents of the suburban towns more protection. The bill was endorsed by the Middlesex farm bureau and it is understood has been approved by a number of towns.

In the course of the meeting Marcus M. Cowdrey, commander of the Billerica post of the G.A.R., was re-elected local bureau agent for indigent soldiers and sailors. Charles S. Lyons was re-appointed sealer of weights and measures for the ensuing year.

Suing the Town
Forrest P. Collier has brought suit against the town in behalf of the Foster and Prentiss estates to recover for land damages caused by the construction of the new Corner bridge. When the bridge was erected the town took by right of eminent domain a certain portion of land owned by the estates and the sum of $200 was awarded the Foster estate for approximately 12,000 feet of land under the bridge. The estate was allowed $75 for about 20,000 feet, these awards being made by the county to be paid for by the town. The estates refused to accept the awards and some time ago the board of selectmen was appointed a committee by the town moderator to look into the matter and report at the last town meeting. The report sustains the awards and now the matter will be thrashed out in court.

Nineteen Hundred Club
Tomorrow afternoon has been set aside by the members of the Nineteen Hundred club as children's day. This club is composed of women members of the Unitarian church in the Centre village and is headed by Mrs. Florence Hadley. The afternoon's program will consist of entertainment numbers and games and refreshments will be served.

Ann Pollard Lodge
A regular meeting of loyal Ann Pollard lodge, I.O.O.F., M.E., will be held tomorrow evening in Union hall, North village. A feature of the meeting will be the initiation of a large class of candidates, the exercises to be carried out by the degree team of Wamsleet lodge of Lowell. The lodge is also making arrangements for the observance of its 19th anniversary, which will be held in Thomas Talbot Memorial hall in June.

Want Fare Reduction
The residents of Billerica, both in the North and Centre villages, are up in arms over the excessive fares, which they claim are being charged by the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., and they are anxiously awaiting the new scale of fares, which will go into effect May 2. The fare from Lowell to North Billerica is 20 cents (cash) or 14 cents and a fraction (ticket), while from the North to the Centre the fare is again two units. Unless one rides direct to the Centre from the city, which case the distance is divided into three zones. The town people feel that such fares are exorbitant and on many occasions they have appealed to the officials of the road to bring about a reduction. A short time ago the selectmen again conferred with street railway officials and were assured that the town would be given due consideration when the new schedule goes into effect, May 2.

Work Resumed
Work on the new bridge spanning the Concord river at Jones' corner, North village, which was stopped during the winter season, was resumed this week and now being charged by the concrete driveway on the structure. It is expected with good weather prevailing the new bridge will be thrown open to traffic in about four weeks.

Talbot Mills
Business is picking up at the Talbot mills in the North village and it was learned yesterday that all the departments are now operating full time, while the carding and spinning departments are being operated overtime. Most of the help, who have been idle a greater part of the winter, have returned to their respective positions.

Baby Clinic
A baby clinic, under the direction of Dr. Mary Putnam, the city specialist, will be held in the North village in the course of the month, the date to be announced later. A clinic was held at the kindergarten last week and it was so successful that Dr. Putnam is now

Charming Old-fashioned Concert By Unitarian So- ciety of Chelmsford.

Beautiful and elaborate costumes of the past, many of them real relics of an older day, were worn last night by the participants at a charming old-fashioned concert given by the Unitarian society of Chelmsford, at the town hall in Chelmsford Centre. The rehearsals for the affair, which have been going on for more than a month, were more than justified by the many quaint and delightful features were presented. These included, not only all the soft and melodious tunes that our grandfathers and grandmothers loved, but also recitations of an appropriate nature, together with a musical, stepped by light of the young people who took part in the program. The ladies whose names appear on the program, and who were instrumental in the entertainment were: Mrs. Nellie Robert, Mrs. Etta MacPhie, Mrs. Herbert F. Whipple, Mrs. Nelson S. Read, Mrs. Ripley, Mrs. Isaac H. Knight, Mrs. David George, Mrs. Mosier Sweetser, Mrs. Heber Cuddey, Mrs. Charles A. Dane, Mrs. Walter Perlman, Mrs. Victor L. The affair was under the direction of Mr. Ernest Ingle. Mr. John Buckley was at the piano, while the following orchestra also provided instrumental selections and accompaniment for the various numbers in the program: Paul Davis, Harry A. Healy, Pack and Thomas Parker. Mrs. John Buckley gave several most effective recitations, and was obliged to respond to encores, while a male quartet was also one of the star features of the occasion. The first number began at 8 o'clock in the evening. After the conclusion of the entertainment, dancing was enjoyed by the large audience which attended the affair. The decorations of the hall were of blended lavender and pink, the symbols of old-fashioned things. Draperies of these shades were everywhere throughout the hall, and together with the costumes worn by the participants in the concert made a most harmonious and unusual picture. There was a powdered hair of earlier days, together with wigs, ruffled shirt-fronts, breeches of satin, and the other necessary requisites for an "Old Folks' Concert." Mr. Ingle, the director, leads the Masonic club which in Lowell, dancing until midnight followed the concert, and cake and candy were on sale. The program was as follows:

Planning Character Party
All roads will lead to the Thomas Talbot Memorial hall Friday evening when the Billerica post of the American legion will act as hosts for the townspeople in a character party. The affair will be the first of its kind attempted by the post and it is felt that a great success is in store for the organization, for all its members are deeply interested in the matter. A character march will be held in the early part of the evening and suitable prizes will be awarded the winners. Later entertainment numbers will be given and general dancing will be enjoyed till a reasonable hour. The arrangements are in charge of a committee headed by Commander Newell Ritchie and Frederick Callahan.

Drawing Contest
A drawing contest for the benefit of St. Andrew's church has been organized by the Sunday school teachers of the church. The prize is a handsome cedar chest and the name of the lucky winner will be drawn on the evening of April 15, when a dance and entertainment will be held in Thomas Talbot Memorial hall.

Doing Road Work
Highway Surveyor Bestwick is supervising the work of macadamizing Pollard road from the Foreway bridge to the Centre, for which the sum of $5000 was appropriated at the last annual town meeting. As soon as this job is completed the highways employees will direct their activities to other parts of the town and it is expected they will be kept busy until the cold weather sets in.

INDUSTRIAL SITUATION FOR PHYSICAL TRAINING AND SCHOOL NURSES

Speaker Says It's Folly for Employees Not to Accept Reductions

If employees "stand out and say that they will not accept reductions, it is folly." "The deliberate shirking of men in industry has been terrific." These statements relative to the present industrial situation were made last evening by Herbert O. Stetson, industrial secretary for the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, at the first dinner of the Traffic club of the Lowell chamber of commerce. Col. Arthur N. Payne, assistant transportation director of the Associated Industries, spoke on freight conditions. The speakers were secured by H. D. Bowen, chairman; P. L. Shaw and C. F. Langley, of the entertainment committee.

There is no market for goods now, declared Mr. Stetson, but the beginnings of activity seem to be making themselves apparent. The last six months have brought a decisively better business situation. It is up to the public, said the speaker, as to when demand will boom. "We are wearing shoes and clothes longer," he stated, "and we are doing all sorts of things to keep from buying. This is because we think, and have a right to, that if we buy now we will pay more than will be necessary later on. When the people realize that prices have reached the right level they will buy. All things must be leveled down before we can get to keep from buying. We cannot maintain the prices which are being paid today for workers."

Mr. Stetson declared that "during the war we got the habit of producing regardless of cost, and then of buying regardless of cost. The shipping board made rivers, carpenters, and other classes of 'expert' workers out of laborers, taxi drivers and so on. This means that we must now liquidate not only wages, but also inefficiency."

The accident rates in coal mines of England, France, Belgium, Germany, Austria and Japan are much lower than in America because all the miners in one mine speak the same language.

SMALL DECLINE IN MILK PRICES

AND SCHOOL NURSES

(Special to The Sun.)
BOSTON, April 6.—Strong endorsement of the physical training bill and the school nurses' bill, now pending before the legislature, has been sent to each member of the general court by the Massachusetts Parent-Teacher association, Inc., an organization composed of teachers and parents in all parts of the Commonwealth, with headquarters in Boston.

In yesterday's mail each legislator received a copy of the following letter:

"Dear Representative:
"The Massachusetts Parent-Teacher association begs you to vote for the school nurse bill and the physical training bill.

"There is, so far as we can make out, no justifiable opposition to these bills. At the state house we hear there is opposition from the small towns, but when we go among the members of our association who live in the small towns, we cannot find this opposition.

"Do not make the women of Massachusetts go all over this work again next year. The children need school nurses and they need physical training. Please rise the children's rights by voting for these two bills that will come before you immediately."

TED JAMIESON TO BOX VICTORY FOR LOWELL
BILL MCKINNON HERE

After considerable negotiating, the matchmaker of the Crescent A. A. has finally completed his card for tomorrow night.

Ted Jamieson, the well known light heavyweight of Milwaukee, who is now making his home in Boston and Bill McKinnon of Roxbury, who recently staged a comeback, will meet in the main event of ten rounds and Frank Molins and Johnny Boyle, local rivals will perform in the semi-final of eight rounds.

McKinnon a few years ago was one of the leading battlers of his weight in the east and local fans will well remember his many sensational battles with Jimmy Gardner. These great bouts are still the subject of many conversations among ring followers. In his comeback bout at Boston a few weeks ago McKinnon showed much of his old-time form.

Molins and Boyle are well known to local followers of the game. Molins has been quite active of late, but Boyle's activities have been confined to training. He has been working out for many weeks, with a view of attaining a "comeback" and he reports that he is in fine condition. There will be one other bout.

Reports from Boston indicate that Frank Molins, the local boxer, made a big hit there Monday night, when he won the decision over Johnny Murray after eight rounds. Murray had a big weight advantage over Molins, and the fact that the local lad was able to overcome the handicap and win practically all the way, brought him vigorous applause. Matchmaker Brophy of the club was so well pleased with the Lowell boy's showing that he promised to use him frequently during the coming months.

Jimmy Demas of Lowell and Benny Nelson, also of this city, will appear in an eight-round bout in Nashua on Thursday evening.

DEVLIN SETS HIGH MARK
IN BOWLING TOURNEY

Jack Devlin, with a three-string total of 322, has jumped into the lead in the three-string competition in the second week of the big bowling tournament on the Crescent alleys.

Devlin made a total while rolling on a team composed of Flanders, Schonbom and himself. His strings were 153, 122, 151, which with a handicap of five pins, gives him the total indicated.

The mark set is high for picked strings for the week, and it won Monday's prize for $2 for high daily rolling.

Schonbom set a fast pace in individual competition, with a total of 303, or 105-115 by strings. He is favored to the extent of eight pins by the handicapper. For one string rolling, Watson was high with 143.

Flanders and Devlin lead in two-men rolling with a total of 701. This week's leaders are:
Individual: Schonbom, 303; McNulty, 291; Beutgard, 282.
Two-men: Flanders and Devlin, 701; Flynn and Quinn, 695; Dr. Hewson and Dr. Horne, 680; Sullivan and King, 654.

Thrills and Fisticuffs Feat-
tured Overtime Game

With Fall River Last Night

One of the most exciting games of the present season with overtime necessary to determine the winner, was played at the Crescent rink before an enthusiastic crowd last night with Lowell finally landing the verdict by the score of 7 to 6.

At Davies scored the winning goal in 15 seconds of actual overtime, though the elapsed time from the third period made it 7:55. It was a beautiful angle shot that slipped by Moose Conley like a bullet.

While the game itself was of sufficient interest to hold the attention of the crowd a little "side show" added to the general excitement. Frank Hardy went on a rampage in the third period and when he invaded into the Lowell circle and grabbed Blount's stick, the Lowell goal tend resented the interference and made a pass at Hardy. Referee Graham intervened and called a foul on Hardy. This caused a great howl. Hardy objected strenuously, and to make his protest more emphatic, he began to toss the official around. Graham coolly and deliberately put the ball he was holding into his pocket and squared off. The pair clashed, but the other players intervened, and Officer Liston came onto the floor, and escorted Hardy to the dressing room.

After a brief lull, Hardy returned to the accompaniment of "razzberries" by the fans, with cheers for Graham. Play was resumed and from then until the finish it was as fast and bitterly contested a battle as has ever been seen here.

Play was closed in the opening session, Pierce and Harkins each called and Quigley followed with one for Lowell. Pierce then landed another and shortly before the end of the session Davies poked one in for Lowell. Score: Fall River three, Lowell two. In the second Davies came through with one that tied the score. Fall River then got a brace with Harkins and Hardy, the scores: Score: Fall River five, Lowell three. With the opening of the third session Lowell launched a whirlwind offensive. Alexander hammered in a brace, tying the score, and a little later Davies poked one in front, with a fine drive.

At this point the rumpus came and after the referee Harkins poked one in again creating a tie. There was no further scoring in the session and overtime play was in order.

After a brief intermission the players got at it again, with all lighting hard for the one big goal. Finally Davies poked the ball out of a scrimmage, and by a bullet drive sent the "red" into the curtains for victory. The lineup and score:

POLO NOTES

Providence will play here Friday night.

As was expected Blount and Conley gave a fine exhibition of how to tend goal.

Referee Graham jumped from a vantage to a hero in last night's game. Fans "rode" him in the early part of the game, but in the third period, when he penalized Hardy and later retaliated when Hardy made a pass at him, the crowd accorded him three cheers.

Harkins and Pierce turned in a fine passing game.

With the Whalers sure of the pennant Sox Quigley and his teammates have issued a challenge to the champs for a series of games. The locals as now constituted, feel capable of putting it onto the leaders in a series of games.

PLAN TO AID FARMERS

Most Important Meeting of Farmers in History at Chicago Today

CHICAGO, April 6.—The ratification conference on the co-operative grain marketing plan submitted by the farmers' marketing committee of 17 assembled here today for "the most important meeting of farmers that the history of our country or any other country has ever recorded." In the words of C. H. Gustafson, chairman of the committee.

Details of the plan prepared during nearly a year of conferences to market the majority of the farm products of the country under the most favorable price conditions were submitted to representatives of the various farm organizations behind the proposal.

The plan provides purely and simply for the farmer to enter upon a program of conducting his own business of marketing," said Mr. Gustafson.

The plan proposed by the committee of 17 as a basis of action called for farmers to contract for the sale of all their grain as members of the national co-operative organization.

Plans were outlined for national agencies for finance and for export. "The department of agriculture should lend the same aid to farmers in marketing their crops as it does in their production," Secretary Wallace declared in an address at the conference.

The farmers' right to organize into associations, co-operative or otherwise, for the purpose of marketing their crops, he said, could not be questioned so long as they observed the law.

While not discussing the committee's marketing plan in detail, the secretary said it appeared to have profited by practical experience of the past and to have avoided the weaknesses which had broken down many previous organizations.

He called attention to the current low prices for farm products while "practically everything the farmers buy is from 50 to 100 per cent. above pre-war normals."

He declared, however, that the more critical the situation, "the greater the need for keeping a level head. It is not a time to try quick nostrums."

With the exception of France, the railways of continental Europe are for the most part state-owned.

NEW YORK POLICE IN

DRIVE ON SALOONS

NEW YORK, April 6.—Saloonkeepers who derived comfort last night from the fact that despite a widely heralded police drive, things were "as usual" with dispensers of illegal drinks, got a shock today when they learned the police drive had not started—but would start in earnest today.

First Deputy Police Commissioner Leach announced that he and Acting Chief Inspector Murphy had spent virtually the entire night drawing up an order to the city's 11,000 policemen putting into effect the state enforcement laws signed last Monday by Governor Miller.

The order directs the police to employ "all of the force vested in them as police officers" in preventing sale or transportation of intoxicants.

"It looks like a dark day for the home brewer, too," Mr. Leach said. "While the home is safe from summary invasion it is not to be turned into a brewery. We will have search warrants when it is necessary to enter homes."

The commerce of the Upper Mississippi diminished from 4,000,000 tons in 1920 to 1,000,000 in 1918.

Deplores Feminine Fashion Demands

BOSTON, April 6.—Feminine fashion demands are deplored by Prof. Felix Frankfurter of Harvard university as unnecessary whims which increase the labor in making clothes 50 per cent. He told the Massachusetts branch of the Consumers' league last night that women should adopt simpler styles to eliminate wasted effort. He urged that the coal situation in this country including employment, production and storage, be investigated by a commission of experts.

Socialists Defeated in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, April 6.—Unofficial returns today from all but four precincts revealed an almost complete defeat for socialist candidates in yesterday's municipal election. Mrs. Victor L. Berger, who was elected to the school board, was the only socialist among the winners. Emil Seidel, former socialist mayor, was decisively defeated for alderman-at-large by William B. McKinley, non-partisan. The proposal to adopt daylight saving, was carried.

Of the $3591.65 collected in fines at the Lowell police court during the period covered by January 1-March 31, the sum of $335.65 has just been turned over to the town, authorities of Chelmsford. This is the largest amount realized in fines by any of the suburbs, and substantially leads Dracut, the next largest benefactor, which received $129.

"Clean-up Day"

Lawns will be raked and made tidy and ready for the summer, stones will be removed from the streets, sidewalks will be made spick and span, and there will be pruning and turning up the soil, throughout the five villages of Chelmsford on April 16, the date set for this year's celebration of "Clean-up Day." The affair, an annual one, is participated in by all residents of the town, with the object of making north, south, east, west, and central Chelmsford a "spotless spot." Every citizen is expected to turn to, and make his premises one hundred per cent. perfect, together with the street in front of his dwelling, and any adjacent land that is in need of "cleaning up." It is also the annual custom to have luncheon served to the volunteer "white-wings" as the leading residents become for a day, at one of the churches of each district.

Mr. Percy Kimball, of Chelmsford Centre, is director of the demonstration, and heads the sub-committees as general manager of the day's activities. Yesterday evening he announced several special features which will distinguish the day this year. A speaker on community work, whose name is not yet given, will address the residents relative to such town movements as the "clean-up" campaign of a day. A song leader will direct community singing of an appropriate nature, and special plans for a dinner for the workers are going forward.

High School Alumni Dance

Arrangements have been completed by the various committees in charge of the annual Chelmsford high school alumni dance, scheduled to take place on the 15th of the present month at the town hall at Chelmsford Centre. The affair is always one of the leading social events of the season, and is semi-formal. Hoppe's orchestra, from the Hotel Somerset, Commonwealth avenue, Boston, has been secured by the association to provide music for the occasion.

Fire Department Busy

The newly organized fire department system at the North village has been kept on the jump since Sunday, when a morning blaze at a residence in West Chelmsford ushered in a series of conflagrations which destroyed vast tracts of valuable timber land in that locality. The building fire did but little damage, as the result of prompt response on the part of the department. Later in the day, however, a serious grass fire was encountered. Yesterday the firefighters were busy throughout the day, numerous blazes starting in the undergrowth and stubbornly resisting all efforts to control them. As there were four of these conflagrations in different sections of the territory, and all burning practically simultaneously, it was impossible for the men to accomplish the effective work which would have been possible with all the resources of the department concentrated on one blaze. Assistant District Chief George Sheppard, a veteran firefighter, led a squad of nearly 20 men in combatting and most menacing fire, which broke out about 8.30 a. m. on the Adams estate. A permit had been secured to burn stubble, and the flames had got beyond control, due to the amount of dead leaves and branches on the ground. Twenty acres were burned over, and the firemen fought the flames from early morning until 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when the "all out" word was passed. The grass fire on Sunday started just over the Chelmsford line, on the Tyngsboro side, but the local apparatus and personnel were called out. By rapid action, they succeeded in saving two dwellings located on the Chelmsford-Tyngsboro line. Yesterday's most serious blaze, which lasted five hours, was characterized by Assistant Chief Sheppard as one of the worst he had ever seen in all his many years' experience as a member of the department. The Adams estate is in West Chelmsford, but the North village department was all there. At 1 o'clock, while the firemen were in the midst of their work on this conflagration, an alarm was sounded for a blaze on Dunstable road, this side of Oak Hill. Three calls came in from the Robbins Hill observatory, where the state has stationed employees whose duty it is to survey the surrounding lowlands for traces of smoke or flame, which are then reported to the various township fire departments. One of these fires was the Dunstable road blaze, the other two were new alarms, constituting four blazes in all.

Stock Farm Sold

Although the stock farm of the United States Rubber company's 51-acre mill has been sold, Mr. Mark Tugham, of the plant, stated yesterday that he had received no information to the effect that the employees' restaurant would be affected to the extent of closing. The butter, milk and other dairy products served at the restaurant have been furnished by the farm in the past, but it is expected that other arrangements will be substituted, as the work for shutting up the restaurant has not been given. Twelve prize cows and a stock bull, together with two track horses, were among Painting Grammar School The old grammar school at North Chelmsford is getting a new coat of yellow paint, as the outcome of agitation which produced lively discussion at the recent gathering of citizens. It was felt that after the town hall and the new grammar school had been adorned with fresh paint, the old school should also get a coating to complete the improvements. The authorities have gone the demands and better by not only painting the building, but also making extensive repairs to the interior of the structure, remodeling various parts of the building to improve accommodations there.

VAUDEVILLE ARTISTS TO BE HONORED

Always among the first to come to the aid of stricken or distressed humanity everywhere, but rarely seeking aid themselves, the men and women of the vaudeville stage in this country are to be honored with a special recognition, namely, performance next Friday afternoon, April 5.

The B. F. Keith theatre in this city will join with the 500 other vaudeville theatres of the United States and Canada in donating their entire receipts on the afternoon of that date to the insurance fund of the National Vaudeville Artists, Inc. The insurance fund was created a year ago by the Vaudeville Managers' Protective Association, and April 5 has been designated as the date of the annual testimonial performance in support thereof. Out of this fund every paid-up member of the organization—and this includes practically every vaudeville artist seen throughout the season at Keith's theatre in this city—is insured for $1000 without charge. This money is paid to the beneficiaries in event of death, without delay or red tape of any kind. The many payments of this kind made during the past year have been a goodly list, and the vaudeville artists are encouraged by the widespread good accomplished as a result of the 1920 performance. The managers are determined to make this year's testimonial an even bigger success.

In addition to the regular bill at Keith's, there will be a number of extra attractions especially arranged for this performance. Throughout the season the vaudeville performers who come to Lowell are called upon frequently to contribute their services to parish reunions, church entertainments and similar affairs and they always respond willingly and without charge. For that reason Manager B. F. Pickett of Keith's and his staff of attaches are working hard to make next Friday afternoon's testimonial the success the same affair was a year ago, and they ask the public to cooperate with them in their endeavor.

POLICE CENSOR BARS UNCLOTHED KNEES

BETHOIT, April 6.—Theatre owners joined the performers today in answering an edict by the police censor which bars unclothed knees, even of Greek dancers, under the ban. "Stagefolk," the censor declared, "have been going too far and it must stop."

His only exception was in national costume, such as the Scotch. The performers and theatre owners, in turn, have asked city officials to clear the streets, particularly those leading from theatres to hotels, of the "Johnny nuisance."

The censor also became the target of many quips, such as suggestions that he exercise his powers on the other side of the curtain, expressions of fear that car muffs might yet be censured on Detroit stages, and reminders that cloth alone was not a mark of decency.

Greek Minister of War Satisfied

ATHENS, April 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Entire satisfaction with the military situation in Anatolia, is expressed by M. Gounaris minister of war. He returned from Paris yesterday with Prince George, brother of King Constantine, and M. Maximos, director of the National Bank of Greece. They said that all misunderstandings between Greece and the allies had been cleared up. M. Maximos asserted there was no reason for uneasiness, as the country was amply supplied with funds to carry on the war against the Turkish nationalists for three months without the necessity of outside help. The Greek attack on Eski-Shehr, will be resumed in a few days, M. Gounaris says.

Other incorporators declare that the league will form branches in every state where there is blue law agitation.

LOWELL MAN SAYS HE COULD PREDICT STORMS TWO DAYS AHEAD OF APPEARANCE

Mr. G. B. Perrin of 22 Brookline St., Lowell, Had Rheumatism So Badly That He Could Predict Every Change in the Weather. CINOOT Is Changing This Condition

From Mr. Perrin's testimonial the writer is inclined to believe that he will lose his reputation as a weather prophet as CINOOT will certainly get rid of those rheumatic pains. He says: "For a number of years I have had rheumatism very badly throughout my body and on the approach of every storm I could tell that it was coming as I would have terrible pains."

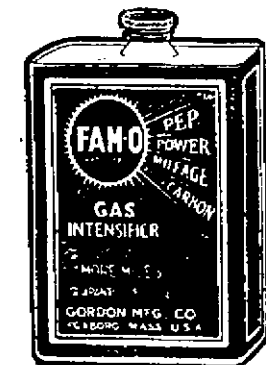

"I am taking CINOOT and I notice a wonderful improvement and from the results I am getting I know that it will be only a short time until I am able to say that I am entirely free from pain."

"The pain is getting less as each day goes by and the last storm did not hardly affect me at all and I think this one statement is enough to convince that CINOOT has great merit."

CINOOT IS BEING DEMONSTRATED IN LOWELL BY AN EXPERT AT DOW'S DRUG STORE, and is for sale by all good druggists everywhere.

WORK FOR IRELAND BY KITTREDGE COUNCIL

An important meeting of Paul Kittredge council, American Association for Recognition of the Irish Republic, was held at Y.M.C.A. hall last evening with a large attendance and Dr. Donoghue presiding. Arrangements were made to assist in having representation at the Chicago convention, at which 5,000 delegates are expected.

Several speakers discussed the report of the American commission on the condition of Ireland and announced it very conservative, holding that it was understated the character of the pogroms and atrocities committed by crown forces and Unionists in reprisal for attacks by Sinn Féin soldiers.

Reports were made of the meeting of the general relief council held Sunday night and the plan of work adopted.

The following committee was appointed to arrange for an entertainment in aid of the relief fund and to report at the meeting to be held next Wednesday evening: James Healy, Patrick Kane, John McGowan, Mrs. Owen Craven, Mrs. Lawson, Miss C. Fallon, Mrs. J. J. Conway and Mrs. Healy. A committee on entertainment was chosen consisting of Miss Tansey, Miss McCarron, Mrs. Crowley, Patrick Kane and Mr. Preston.

MEASLES STILL ON RAMPAGE HERE

The measles epidemic has had a run of nearly 12 months in Lowell with no respite or cessation, according to figures of the board of health, and in the period from May, 1920, up to the present time a total of 2,033 cases has been reported.

In May, when the epidemic first started, 55 cases were reported. In June there were 168 cases; in July, 149; in August, 71; in September, 13; in October, 17; in November, 33; in December, 35; in January, 32; in February, 19; in March, 16, and so far this month, five. It will be noted that there was a material increase in the fall after the schools had reopened and children were thrown into more or less close association after the summer months. The mortality from the disease has been slight.

RARE BLUE SPRUCE

Ornamental Trees Shipped From Here to New Jersey

After searching throughout the entire United States for a landscape architect planning improvements on the estate of J. T. Lovett of Little Silver, N. J., found the object of his quest—the rare blue spruce, or "Costa Glauca," at the McLannan nurseries, in this city. As a result Mr. McLannan is shipping 150 of the precious trees to-day, the deal representing approximately $15,000. Twenty-five years ago a local arborist, expert importer, these trees from Holland, where they had been produced by Costa, the great Netherlands tree grower. Soon afterwards the United States shut down on the importation of all plants or other vegetation, which must come with portions of the soil clinging to the roots. This taboo was for the purpose of preventing the coming of insect plagues. The blue spruce, and in consequence the famous "blue spruce" is impossible to obtain anywhere in the 48 states, except at the local nurseries. For 25 years Mr. McLannan cared for the trees, which now weigh on an average one ton each. "It has been my life-work and hobby," he said today. The trees are being taken to the Western avenue railroad yard, and there taken aboard freight cars by means of a derrick. A large motor truck can carry only eight of them, as they are each about 25 feet in height. Three years ago Mr. McLannan shipped seven carloads to Youngstown, Ohio, where a local magnate turned his estate from a barren desert to a garden spot. At the nurseries there are still many of the trees, some even taller than 25 feet. No American has ever attempted to produce the trees from the seed, as life is too short. It also requires many years to grow them from grafts, and these circumstances, combined with the shutting off of the great source of supply in Holland, make the blue spruce a rarity. In Colorado near approach to the trees are produced, but these do not satisfy connoisseurs, who demand the real article, and in the present instance the entire country had to be scoured before a batch of them were located in this city.

and during and after the meal there was community singing with Paul J. Angelo at the piano.

President Harold L. Chaffoux presided, congratulated the members on the success of the first meeting, emphasized the desire of the chamber of officials to have the meetings start and end promptly and then introduced Mr. Harriman.

In opening, the speaker told of the tremendous commerce now being carried on over the waters of the Great Lakes. He said there is more commerce conducted there than in the Mediterranean and Black seas combined and that more tonnage passes through the port of Detroit in nine months than through New York, London or Liverpool in any 12-month period. He further stated that 40 per cent of the population of the United States lived on or near the shores of the Great Lakes and that this section was a great industrial and agricultural region.

Describing the traffic there, he said that it moved along the Great Lakes until the port of Buffalo is reached and then trouble begins. The Erie canal has helped to solve matters a bit and that the only real obstacle preventing the traffic from reaching Atlantic ports is the St. Lawrence river.

Western States Interested

Mr. Harriman pointed out that 15 western states had united to secure the development of the St. Lawrence for navigation purposes but he believed that the project was of an greater importance to New England and New York. It will affect New England in three ways, he said. First, it will prove a source of tremendous hydro-electric power; secondly, it will allow inland commerce to pass from Atlantic ports through the St. Lawrence river directly to the Great Lakes, and thirdly, it will have direct influence on our foreign commerce.

Discussing the possibilities of the hydro-electric power resources of the St. Lawrence, were it properly developed, the speaker said that congress has complete power over the river that is or can be made navigable and that as a corollary right, it can create power developed by the river. It has the right to create hydro-electric energy as by-product of the improvement of the St. Lawrence for navigation.

Mr. Harriman then went on to describe the flow and drop of the St. Lawrence, and said that the St. Lawrence drained one-fourth of the North American continent above the Mexican border.

Organization Formed

There has been formed, he said, an organization known as the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Waterway association, the purpose of which is to develop this project and it has succeeded in having a joint commission made up of representatives of the United States and Canadian governments appointed to investigate the matter. This investigation has been practically completed and a report on the possibilities of the project and its estimated cost will be made public within the next 30 days.

This report, he said, will recommend a 90-foot dam with locks in the middle of the river and a power house on either end. This will enable the development of four million horsepower every day in the year and every hour in the day.

That would mean five times as much power as the power consumed in New England. The cost will probably be between 250 and 300 million dollars. The natural market for the power produced will be New England, Canada and New York, and there suits still include the electrification of New England railroads and the substitution of electrical energy for coal in her industries and utilities.

Railroad Electrification

Mr. Harriman said that whether the St. Lawrence project is developed or remains in its present status, railroads will be electrified through economic necessity. It is merely a question of time, he maintained. The most wasteful method of using coal known, he said, was burning it under the boilers in locomotives. Last year the railroads used five million tons of coal on 50,000 miles of track. Assuming that there is not complete electrification at once, he said that if only 15,000 miles of railroads in New England are electrified, there will be a saving of four million tons of coal per year.

He estimated the cost of electrifying 15,000 miles of New England railroads at between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000. Last year's coal bill for these 15,000 miles of railroad was $40,000,000. The saving which would be effected by electrification would pay its entire cost together with interest charges in from two to three years. In addition, the cost of maintenance will be much less and the space formerly occupied by coal in freight cars would be utilized for some other purpose.

The speaker also dwelt on the effect the development of the hydro-electric power of the St. Lawrence would have on the industries of New England. He said that 1,000,000,000 kilowatts would turn every wheel in New England now turned by coal and this amount of energy would be but a part of the total which would come to New England were the St. Lawrence developed. The power thus generated would be the equivalent of 30 million tons of coal each year and would also equal the energy of 100,000 workers.

In his relation to inland commerce, Mr. Harriman said that the utilization of the Merrimack river would mean that vessels could journey from London and Liverpool to Detroit, Chicago, and Toledo in from six to ten days, according to the ports, and could carry freight for half the present cost. The project, he said, had the backing of such men as Franklin K. Lane, former secretary of the interior, and Herbert Hoover. It is a great project for the development of energy and he expected that the possibilities would be realized to the fullest extent.

day. Trouble which began yesterday in the coal mining town of Conde, in Fifehire, Scotland, became more serious at midnight and in a series of melees with the police, a number of strikers were injured, said a Central News despatch from Dundee. Several policemen also were wounded.

The rioters repeatedly broke through the police cord and cut electric light wires, throwing the town into darkness. Police reinforcements were rushed to the scene.

Robert Williams, general secretary of the transport workers, said: "On recommendation from the executive committee, the conference has decided to give all assistance in our power to strikers and to enter into negotiations with the railway to help the miners and to enter into joint action throughout the remainder of the contest."

The National Transport Workers' Federation which voted today to extend aid to the British miners in their strike, comprises 35 affiliated unions with an aggregate membership of about 500,000.

If it becomes generally effective, would call out all types and classes of workers engaged in transportation by road, rail or sea.

These workers include street car conductors, motormen, taxicab drivers, truckmen, enshemen, trawmen, watermen, bargemen, stevedores, various classes of general laborers, firemen, dockers, dockworkers, ship stewards, cooks, and a miscellaneous assortment of other auxiliary workers.

The services of several of these varieties of workers are much more vital to industry, commerce and public convenience in England than in America. In London, for instance, hundreds of thousands of persons are dependent upon the buses as the sole means of conveyance from their homes to their places of employment. The calling out of the drivers of the horse-drawn freight vans owned by the railroads, it is pointed out, would entail much more difficulty here than in the United States, where the means of transport have been much more largely motorized.

SAFE ROADS AND SAFETY FIRST DRIVE

Speed, inexperience and booze are the main causes for accidents as they apply to the operators of automobiles, according to statistics released today by Superintendent of Police Edmund Welch, in connection with the twin drives now on in this city, one of them for "Safe Roads," and the other, for "Safety First." In general, these menacing factors are being demonstrated in the killing and maiming agents, in the film, "Careless Drivers," now showing at local theatres, together with safety talks by prominent local and out-of-town speakers. Pedestrian vices, the figures given by Chief Welch, reveal, are mainly failure to use crosswalks, disregard of the signals of traffic officers, or stepping suddenly from behind parked cars. Fifty per cent of all accidents have children as their victims. Nearly 200 little ones met their death, and nearly 2400 were injured in Massachusetts, because of one single matter of carelessness—darting in front of moving cars. The speakers at Lowell playhouses are stressing the necessity for co-operation between these three groups. Supt. Welch today called attention to the fact that "what is needed is not more laws or more police, but a campaign of education." And it is such a campaign that is now going on under his direction, and will continue to April 15.

MISS AMY ANDERSON

"The Queen of Careful Drivers" is the name by which Miss Amy Anderson, San Diego, Cal. girl is known. Members of the police department of San Diego watched Miss Anderson, and thousands of other car drivers, for two weeks. At the end of this time, Miss Anderson was awarded a prize.

Asked for her recipe, Miss Anderson said: "Why, it's no trick at all; just drive slowly, and never lose your head. Drive as you should drive, and always remember the other fellow."

PLAN MEMORIAL TO RAY CHAPMAN

BRUNSWICK, Me., April 6.—A proposal to institute a memorial to Raymond Chapman, shortstop of the Cleveland club of the American league last year, who died of injury sustained on the field of play, has been advanced by students of Bowdoin college. The memorial would take the form of a silver trophy which would be given the American league to award annually to the shortstop of that circuit who was of greatest value to his team. The cup would be inscribed "The Ray Chapman cup donated by students of Bowdoin college." One of the reasons prompting the proposed memorial according to Dr. Roy Mason, who has been active in promoting the idea, is the almost complete loss of sentiment in the highly organized game of today.

Shattuck, representing sugar and tobacco interests in Cuba, protested to the state department today against the inclusion of discriminatory tariffs on sugar and tobacco in any tariff bill which may be presented to congress. FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS

Made to Pres. Harding by
Dawes Commission

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Three definite recommendations to President Harding had been agreed upon today by the special commission investigating the care and treatment of disabled service men. They were:

A centralized government with authority to have entire charge of all federal agencies having to do with soldier relief work.

A decentralized administration of service, carrying federal aid as near as possible to the homes of the soldiers throughout the country.

A request for additional appropriations for hospitals, including a permanent building program.

Charles G. Dawes, chairman of the commission, said he would be greatly disappointed if the public investigation was not concluded today.

"We will begin work on the report tonight in executive session," he said.

Col. F. W. Gilbreath, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, expressed pleasure at the progress and conclusions which the committee had reached. He said the three most important decisions conforming to the legion's relief program and would be of immeasurable value in correcting evils resulting from present divided governmental authority.

Col. Chalmers Jones, former head of the war risk bureau, testified that the work of the bureau was steadily increasing.

"New claims are coming in in excess of expectations," he said. "The reason is that the men are awakening to the privileges they have. They had hoped to pull through without government aid but found that impossible."

OAKLAND SALESMEN ARE ENTERTAINED

The Oakland salesman from Boston, Providence and Worcester were the guests of the Lowell Oakland company at their salesrooms in Middlesex street last night, where they enjoyed an evening of business and pleasure in the right proportions. The idea of the gathering was to get the Oakland car salesmen and agencies in closer touch with one another so that the organization as a whole may continue to grow more efficient.

After the visiting "boys" had been shown the sights and show places of Lowell, Arthur Pease, general manager of the Lowell company gathered them in the main salesroom, where chairs and tables had been arranged for an informal business meeting. Then amidst the barrage of smoke Mr. Pease introduced Benjamin S. Pouzner who welcomed the visitors to Lowell. He was followed by Mr. L. B. Sanders, president and general manager of the Dunbar-Sanders Incorporated, and a director of the New England Oakland Co. who delivered some short, snappy and to the point paragraphs on the value of business ethics and acumen, plus the confidence in one's article in putting the business over.

Coman Wallis and Mr. Worcester of the Dunbar-Sanders Incorporated also made a few suggestions along general sales lines as to the particular merits of the Oakland car and the methods they used in making their record sales.

Following the talks an excellent buffet lunch was served.

HOLD UP TRAIN OF FORMER EMPEROR CHARLES

GRATZ, Styria, April 6.—Former Emperor Charles, who is on his way from Hungary to Switzerland, encountered a threatening situation last night, the attitude of workmen making the immediate conclusion of his trip inadvisable. The train was stopped at Frohndorf during the night, and reports received here stated that negotiations which would enable him to proceed were going on. Frohndorf is a small village about 13 miles north of this city.

Train Delayed Five Hours

VIENNA, April 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Five hours' delay in the journey of former Emperor Charles through Austria on his way back to Switzerland from Hungary after his futile attempt to regain the Hungarian throne, was caused by the holding up of his train until early today at Frohndorf, just to the south of Bruck. In lower Austria, because of threatened demonstrations by the workmen of Bruck.

Several thousand men from the industrial zone in the region gathered at Bruck in the evening and declared they would not let him pass until they had told him what they thought about him and his adventure.

The burgomaster of Bruck stopped the train by telephone message from Frohndorf, while efforts were made by the police to disperse the workmen from their place.

The workers resisted all pleas for several hours, but the crowd was finally dispersed at 1 o'clock this morning.

End of McKearn Case

seem strange if McKearn had said to Mrs. Taylor, after she had cared for him for years, that he intended to leave her all his property, but that it was remarkable that he should have told her so when he first went to live with the Taylors, and had only recently become acquainted with them.

The attorney asserted that the arrangement between the Taylors and McKearn was part of a premeditated attempt to secure control of McKearn's property. He said that the deceased's bank books would not show a single deposit in the last 15 years, although he was earning money as a hard-working man who dressed plainly and spent little money. He said that McKearn's seeking assistance in making out an income tax return showed that he had an income of over $2000. He asked the jury to consider what had become of McKearn's income of about $15,000 in the last eight or nine years.

Mr. Conahan said that Mrs. Taylor had testified that McKearn had come to live with her only during working hours, except in the company of herself. He said he could not tell from Mrs. Taylor's testimony whether she went to the Bitter camp alone with McKearn.

The attorney said McKearn's relatives visiting him frequently "and he got into the clutches of the Taylors." He said that Mrs. Taylor had a chance to deny that she was "Miss Taylor," as she had been introduced, when she visited the home of Mrs. Irwin, a cousin, in Somerville.

LONGE MURDER TRIAL

Daughter of Accused Man
Denies Previous Stories
Implicating Father

RUTLAND, Vt., April 6.—Peter Longe of Fairhaven who is on trial for murder, as a result largely of a story by his daughter, Madeline, 15 years of age, heard the girl declare on the witness stand today that her story was untrue.

Longe is charged with the murder of Owen Hayes, whose body was found in the Castleton river at Fairhaven on October 1 last. Longe was arrested two months later after he had caused the arrest of Louis Bishop, a middle-aged neighbor, because of his alleged relations with the Longe girl. The girl visited Bishop in jail and the prisoner informed the authorities that she had told him of incidents related by her father which tended to connect Longe with the killing of Hayes.

On the stand today the child, who has embraced her father repeatedly since his arrest, testified that stories which she had repeated both to the attorney general and the grand jury were lies, that the statements were not made to her by her father, but by Bishop.

The inter is now an inmate of the insane asylum at Waterbury.

Medical experts for the prosecution yesterday testified that the death of Hayes was apparently due to drowning, although the state has contended he was killed by a blow on the head and has pointed to a bruise to show where the blow struck. As a result, counsel for Longe at the opening of court today sought to prevent the child's appearance as a witness for the government, contending that the state had done the murder had been done. The court, however, ordered the case to proceed and Madeline's disavowal followed.

ins were not fighting for the money involved in the case, but for the memory of the coin they grew up with and were wont to call "Pop."

Stanley E. Qua, of Qua, Howard & Rogers, made the closing argument for the petitioner. He referred to the statement of opposing counsel that the contestants were not fighting for money, but to clear the memory of their cousin, and asked if it was in accord with such an intention that they had come into court and sought to blacken the reputation of their relative and a woman who had done them no harm.

Mr. Qua asserted that of the four witnesses for the contestant, all were interested parties except Mrs. Lajole.

The attorney said the cousins were not interested in McKearn until they found that "he had money and a pain in his stomach." He asked if her brother-in-law would have introduced Mrs. Taylor to McKearn if he had been such a "vampire" as had been claimed.

Mr. Qua asked if the neighbors would have been on friendly terms with the Taylors if the relatives claimed to have existed in the household had really existed. He asked if McKearn would have continued to live in the home if he had been afraid of Mr. Taylor when all it would have been necessary for him to do would have been to "open the door and leave." He said that McKearn had "told everybody the Taylors had taken good care of him."

FOURTH ANNIVERSARY OF U. S. ENTRY IN WAR

CAMBRIDGE, April 6.—A plan for collecting and presenting to the Widener Memorial Library at Memorial university material relating to Woodrow Wilson and his administration, with special reference to documents and data concerning the war, the peace conference and the treaty of Versailles, was announced today by Versailles, Jr., president of the Woodrow Wilson club of Harvard.

The announcement was made in connection with a movement among American colleges today, the fourth anniversary of America's entry into the war, to organize individual Wilson clubs as an extension of the memorial idea at Harvard. Stuart said word had been received from many colleges of their participation in the plan.

For the assembly of the historical material a research organization has been formed under the direction of a non-partisan committee of Harvard faculty members. A library with a salary equal to that of a college professor will be employed. Dean C. H. Haskins of the Graduate School of Arts and Science, heads the committee.

At the dean's suggestion, Prof. Frederick J. Turner, one of the committee members, drew up a memorandum on the possibilities of the collection. He suggested the gathering at Harvard of the correspondence and archives of organizations identified with the war and with peace movements; the diaries, correspondence, letters, etc., of men who were associated with President Wilson at Paris, or with his administration in war and peace times. Files of from 50 to 100 newspapers were suggested as the necessary basis of domestic data, and European files were held desirable for data from abroad.

U. S. Must Be Consulted

the league of nations. He asserts that this is a grave attitude on the part of the United States.

It is learned in official circles that the communication bears principally upon the action of the council of the league of nations last December in approving the mandates placed upon that meeting, including the Japanese mandate over the north Pacific islands, taking in the island of Yap, but that it also outlines the policy of the new administration regarding questions arising from the war, and declares the approval of the United States to be necessary for a final settlement.

A disposition to recognize the justice of the American claim, was indicated in official quarters, although with the reservation that it was scarcely possible to give the United States the right of veto in the settlement of questions which necessarily were discussed in the absence of representatives of the American government.

Cover All U. S. Rights

WASHINGTON, April 6.—New notes on the subject of mandates have been sent by the American government to the governments of Japan, Great Britain, France and Italy.

The notes are understood to be similar, but the occasion for preparing them is said to be the receipt of Japan's reply to the original American note protesting against the Japanese mandate over the former German islands in the Pacific north of the equator.

State department officials refused to discuss the documents, but it was learned that they were broad enough in terms to cover all American rights growing out of the world war.

The notes form a part of the series begun by Secretary Colby and in which the United States insist upon its full rights as one of the allied and associated powers, and also the right to pass finally upon all mandates before their adoption.

Mr. Colby's notes were addressed to the principal allied powers, and subsequently a copy of them with an appendix dealing specifically with the Japanese controlled island of Yap in the Pacific ocean was sent to the League of Nations council at Geneva. The council in turn transmitted the document to the allied governments with the explanation that the mandate for Yap had been granted by the supreme council.

The latest American communications, prepared by Secretary Hughes were dated April 4, and by this time have reached the four governments to which they were addressed. All information as to whether or when they would be made public was withheld today at the state department.
